41 Die When Train Hits School Bus

Crash Splinters Rickety Vehicle In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A commuter train hurtled into a shantytown school bus jammed with more than 100 children at a fog-shrouded crossing Monday, splintering the rickety vehicle and dragging the pieces up the track.

Officials said 41 persons, most of them children, were killed and 83 injured, many gravely.

Some of the children died when plasma and blood transfusion supplies ran out at the hospitals.

Crossing Attendant Held

The grade crossing attendant was arrested. Police quoted him as saying he thought the track was clear. The shantytown area of Buenos Aires is in a marshy region where fog is thick in the mornings. Trains are frequent and the barriers at the grade crossing are usually down.

Police said the attendant told them he lifted the wooden black-and-yellow-striped barriers to let a truck through and he allowed the bus to follow. The train engine hit the antiquated bus squarely in the middle, scattering bodies, seats and books 30 feet up the track.

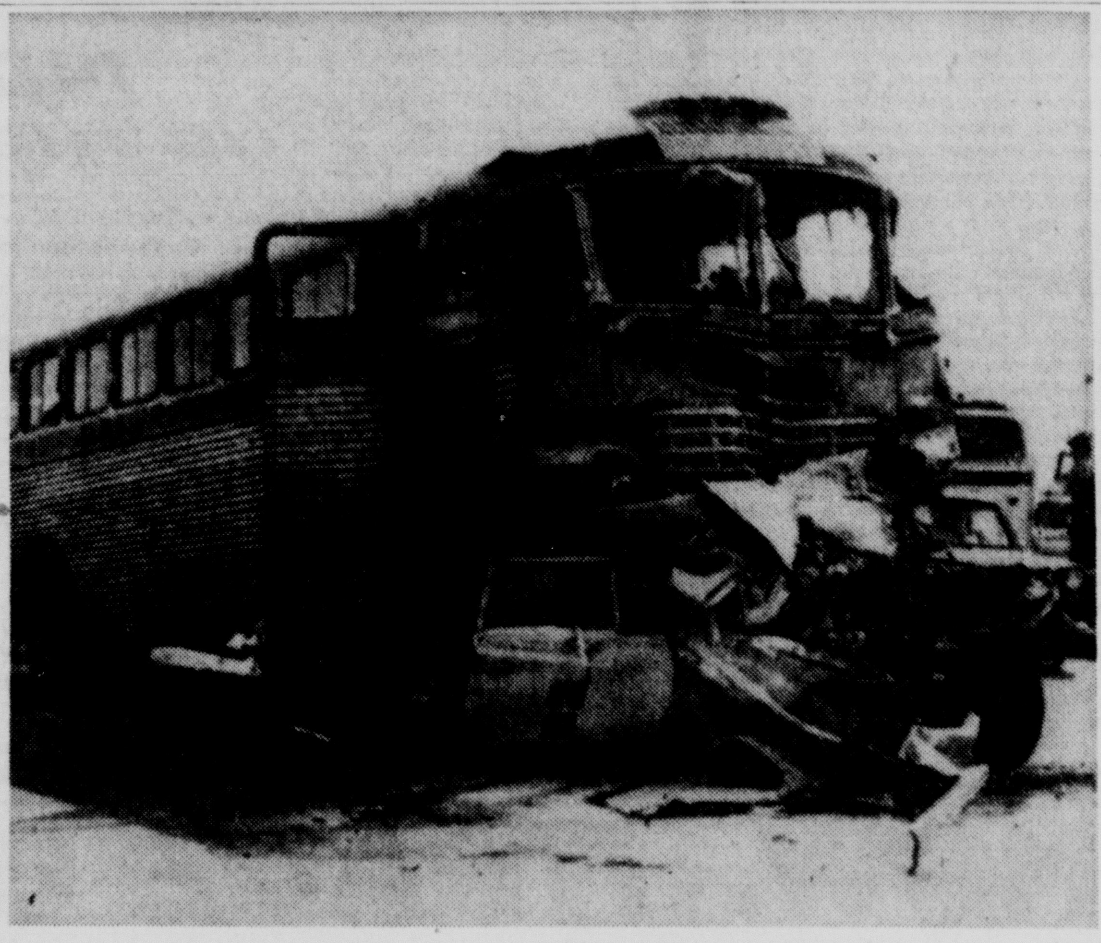
The engineer and a fireman of the train also were held for questioning. The driver of the bus died in the crash. A woman teacher was also among the dead. Another teacher was critically hurt. There were no casualties on the train.

Children Under 10 Years Old

Police said the bus had just stopped to pick the children up for delivery to a school about 15 blocks away. The children were under 10 years old.

One of the few children to escape unharmed, a girl, said she saw the hazy outlines of the onrushing train in the fog and jumped to safety through an open window.

Ambulance after ambulance took the injured to our hospitals. At least 250 doctors rushed to help. Police said 1,500 persons answered calls for blood transfusions within two hours after the accident.



Death Trap For Three Troopers

Mangled remains of a patrol car in which three New Jersey state troopers died lie under front wheels of bus on northbound lane of the New Jersey Turnpike at Secaucus. The bus rounded a curve and smashed into the police car just as the troopers, who had stopped to aid the driver of a disabled truck, were driving away. The driver of the bus and eight passengers were injured.

Three Laos Princes Agree On Cabinet

One Goal Reached But Obstacles Ahead

KHANG KHAY, Laos (AP)—The three feuding princes of Laos finally put together a coalition Cabinet Monday intended to bring peace and neutrality to this little jungle kingdom. All looked pleased at the end of six months of wrangling over the Cabinet makeup.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, 61, a suave, neutralist former premier who is to head the new government, announced the agreement.

This achieved a goal—energetically pursued by the United States—of the 14-nation conference which opened deliberations on Laos in Geneva 13 months ago. Washington officials called the announcement encouraging, but big obstacles still remain.

A major problem is demobilization or merger of rebel neutralist troops and pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas with the royal armed forces. As a neutral, with frontiers presumably guaranteed by world powers, Laos would not need a big army.

An agreement is still to be reached on freezing positions of the opposing forces to supplement the oft-violated cease-fire of 1961.

The agreement on the Cabinet came at a meeting of Souvanna with his half brother, Prince Souphanouvong, 50, of the Pathet Lao; and the premier of the current royal regime, Prince Boun Oum, 50, at this rebel stronghold on the Plaine des Jarres.

Boun Oum, a southern Laotian feudalist of pro-Western sympathies, decided to check out of governmental affairs.

"I'm happy," he said, "and I want to thank all those who helped to achieve the formation of the coalition Cabinet."

However, his strong man deputy premier and defense minister, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan — denounced by U.S. diplomats lately for his opposition to phases of the coalition—is staying on as a deputy premier. Phoumi will also be minister of finance.

Souvanna is personally taking over the Defense Ministry, which controls the armed forces. Another neutralist, Pheng Phongsavan, will handle the powerful Interior Ministry, which controls the police.

Phoumi's foot-dragging, a factor in suspension by the United States last February of $3 million in monthly economic aid to the royal government, was based on a call for ironclad assurances that the defense and interior ministries would not fall into pro-Communist hands.

Souphanouvong is to become a deputy premier and minister of economy.

The foreign ministry goes to Quinim Pholsena, a neutralist who has made bitterly anti-American statements in the past.

Of the 19 men named for the Cabinet, 11 are neutrals, four are from ranks of the present government, and four are Pathet Lao members.

House Group Votes For Tinless Penny

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House banking and currency subcommittee Monday struck a blow for economy. It voted to take the tin out of the penny.

The one-cent piece is made out of 95 per cent copper, 4 per cent zinc and 1 per cent tin.

Since tin costs $1.16 a pound and zinc only 12 cents a pound, the lawmakers went along with the Treasury Department and approved legislation to cut out the tin and replace that 1 per cent with zinc.

Kennedy May Give Ground On Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was reported ready Monday to give ground on some details of his health care for the aged program in an effort to get it moving.

But he was pictured as standing firm on his insistence that it be made a part of the Social Security system.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff conferred behind closed doors with the House Ways and Means Committee and congressional sources reported afterward that the administration was inviting proposals for a compromise.

"I am hopeful we can work something out," Ribicoff told newsmen. "I am settling down with the committee to try to work out a piece of very complicated legislation."

Ribicoff was understood to have told the committee, which has had the President's bill boxed in for more than a year, that Kennedy is adamant on only one point—that the program be financed by an increase in the Social Security payroll tax.

Kennedy considers Social Security taxing the heart of the bill. He told a news conference on May 23 that he would not compromise on this because "that would be just giving up on the bill and we don't plan to do that."

Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., who sponsored the Kennedy plan in the House, told reporters after Monday's session with Ribicoff that he feels the administration could afford to give a good deal to establish the principle of Social Security financing.

The bill would boost the Social Security payroll tax one-fourth of one per cent, on both employer and employe, to finance hospital, nursing-home and outpatient care for persons 65 and older. It also would increase the payroll base on which the tax is applied from $4,800 to $5,200. It would not pay doctors' bills.

Horsepower, Racing Pact Junked By Auto Industry

DETROIT (UPI) — The auto industry Monday night junked its five-year-old joint resolution not to use speed, horsepower and racing as a means of selling cars.

The Ford Motor Co., despite new pressure from Congress, made the first move by announcing withdrawal from the resolution on grounds it has been broken so often it has no more meaning.

Then Chrysler Corp. said that in view of the Ford announcement it now considers the resolution inoperative. Chrysler said the stand was workable only so long as all companies went along with it.

Studebaker and General Motors officially were studying the Ford action. But a top Studebaker executive said last month the industry was "two-faced" and his firm would push up horsepower along with the rest.

American Motors said flatly it "will adhere to the resolution."

The Ford announcement was made by Henry Ford II, board chairman of the firm. He said the company will now set its own standards for promoting and advertising speed and performance of its cars.

Ford's action came in the face of another congressional investigation of automotive speed and safety. Chairman Oren Harris of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee said he is looking into the matter because he understands the whole industry has abandoned the agreement.

Harris, D-Ark., recently asked the industry for examples of all recent ads which promote speed and horsepower.

Dirksen Links Steel Rollback To Market Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Monday many experts believe President Kennedy's rollback of the steel price increase ignited a $75-billion stock market plunge.

"It is becoming clear that the Kennedy administration has got America moving again—but in the wrong direction," Dirksen said, at the weekly news conference of GOP congressional leaders.

"The stock market's crash has supplied the evidence."

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House GOP leader, attacked the President's announcement of a projected income tax cut next year.

"Evidently this means that Mr. Kennedy intends to cut taxes and spend at the same time," Halleck said. "We say the two are contradictory so far as promoting confidence is concerned and can only produce intolerable deficits that will further depress the economy."

Dirksen said the President promised in the 1960 campaign to promote the nation's economic growth, and that on that basis his policies have been a failure in the first 18 months of his administration.

"The truth is that the United States, the most industrialized society in history, is slowly losing first place in modernization to the industrialized nations of Europe and to Japan," he said.

Kennedy Bids For Economic Critics' Help

President Urges Faultfinders Face Modern-Day Facts

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — President Kennedy urged Monday that his economic critics get in step with the times and said the government must be a partner with all sectors of society if America is to prosper.

The President, a Harvard man tapped by Yale to receive an honorary degree, picked the Yale commencement exercises for what the White House considered a significant address on economic matters.

Standing beneath the sun-lit ancient elms of the university's Old Campus rectangle, Kennedy told some 12,000 persons that his critics are talking ancient cliches and refusing to face modern facts.

Debate Healthy At Right Time

Debate, he said, is healthy but "let us not engage in the wrong argument at the wrong time between the wrong people in the wrong country — while the real problems of our own time grow and multiply."

Kennedy made an oblique reference to charges that the recent stock market fall was brought on by lack of confidence in his administration.

It's a false issue, he said, to assume that "any and all unfavorable turns of the speculative wheel — however temporary and however plainly speculative in character—are the result" of lack of confidence in an administration.

Then he went on to say:

"The solid ground of mutual confidence is the necessary partnership of government with all the sectors of our society in the steady quest for economic progress."

Not Antibusiness

The administration, Kennedy said, is not antibusiness.

The President, a Harvard graduate of 1940, was one of 14 persons receiving honorary degrees at Yale's 261st commencement. His was a law degree.

In a speech uninterrupted by applause, Kennedy said too much of the recent economic debate had sounded like "old records, long-playing, left over from the middle thirties" and had been somewhat barren.

But he said he hoped it may "represent the start of a serious dialogue of the kind which has led in Europe to such fruitful colaboration among all the elements of economic society and to a decade of unrivalled economic progress."

U.S. Rejects Afghan Aid Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has rejected Afghanistan's request for a $350-million U.S. commitment to help finance a five-year, $700-million development program with the Soviet Union providing the rest.

Instead, American and Afghan officials said Monday, the United States is giving written assurance of intentions to continue long-term aid in coming years without specifying sums or dates.

Afghanistan has been heavily wooed by the Soviet Union and has been supplied with credits totalling $300 million by Moscow for both economic and military assistance.

Afghan Embassy officials here are disappointed at the U.S. decision and say it means the American aid program is being placed on an uncertain basis.

The United States has supplied Afghanistan with $182.5 million through last June 30.

About $38 million more was committed for this year but Afghanistan broke off relations with Pakistan. This snapped the main land-access routes to the little landlocked South Asian kingdom that borders Pakistan on the south and the Soviet Union on the north.

Moslem Police Kill 4; OAS Declares War

ALGIERS (UPI) — Moslem auxiliary police killed four Europeans and wounded three others on the Algiers waterfront Monday, bringing a declaration of war from the Secret Army Organization (OAS).

Shortly after the incident at the waterfront, scene of a European terrorist attack last month that killed 63 Moslem longshoremen, the OAS pirated a radio wave length and announced it would begin attacks against the auxiliary Moslem police because of the incident.

The OAS, which has been carrying out an unofficial truce on Moslem killings the past week, bombed and burned more schools and shops Monday as part of its scorched earth policy of leaving no public building intact when Algeria becomes an independent, Moslem-dominated nation.

Russ Protest Of U.S. A-Tests Circulated

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —At the request of the Soviet Union, the United Nations circulated as an official document Monday the Soviet government's statement protesting projected U.S. high-altitude nuclear tests in the Pacific.

The Soviet statement, issued June 3, charged the United States is extending the nuclear arms race into outer space.

AF Replaces Army In Satellite Project

Pentagon Acts To Speed Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shaking up the lagging military communications satellite program Monday, the Defense Department stripped the Army of the main development role and gave it to the Air Force.

The Army, which has been working on the "Advent" program for nearly two years, was left only the responsibility for the system's ground equipment while the Air Force develops the spacecraft.

A defense spokesman said the action is expected to result in the beginning of an operational system by 1964, rather than 1966. The military system would function entirely separately from the proposed worldwide civilian satellite communications system.

The spokesman refrained from criticizing the work of the Army, which has spent about $170 million on the project so far. Another $100 million has been sought for the coming year.

The compelling fact in the decision, he said, is that the 1,300-pound satellite now contemplated in the Army program would be too heavy for the rockets now available.

He said also project costs have been running high.

The objective will be a 500-pound satellite which can be lofted by the Air Force Atlas-Agena rocket combination, already a veteran of space experiments.

The spokesman said there would be little loss in efficiency in making the payload smaller.

The plan is to send up more than three and fewer than 10 microwave satellites to circle the earth in a 24-hour orbit around the equator. They would operate at an altitude of 22,300 miles and be used to relay voice and other messages almost instantaneously.

The system would be operated with a ground station near Camp Roberts, Calif. and another near Ft. Dix, N. J. A shipborne station also is planned.

The department also announced the Air Force will develop a second system of 40 or 50 smaller communications satellites which would move about the earth in a polar orbit from 5,000 to 7,000 miles up. It would have both voice and teletype channels.

Peru President Contest Heads For Congress

LIMA, Peru (AP)—With three leading candidates bunched, a decision in Peru's turbulent presidential election campaign appeared Monday to be headed for Congress.

If no candidate musters more than a third of the vote cast Sunday in a field of seven, then Congress must elect a president by July 28, under the constitution.

Press partisans of each of these three leading candidates were claiming their man was in the lead;

Former dictator Manuel A. Odria, a retired general and candidate of the National Odrista Union, considered a moderate;

Fernando Belaunde Terry of the leftist Popular Action party, who had Communist support; and

Victor Raul Haya de la Torre of the leftist but anti-Communist Apra party.

Haya was reported to have the secret backing of President Manuel Prado, who is ineligible to succeed himself.

Suspicious of Haya, Odria and Belaunde accused his backers of trying to line up fraudulent registrations and vowed there would be civil war if the election was rigged.

Long-Dormant Alaska Volcano In Eruption

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—Katmai Volcano, dormant since a violent explosion in 1912, was reported erupting intermittently Monday.

Navy pilots verified that it was spewing ash high in the sky.

Mt. Katmai, on the Alaska peninsula 100 miles north of Kodiak, is in the Katmai National Monument, known as the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes.

No one lives near Katmai but wild game is plentiful in the monument area.

British Ya-Ya Girls Wear World's Shortest Skirts

LONDON (AP) — Unfamiliar sunshine—which produces amazing effects on the British—brought forth this Whitsuntide holiday a crop of the world's shortest skirts.

"Historically," said clothes expert Madge Garland, "never before have women worn such short skirts."

For the last three days, girls by the hundreds have turned out with hemlines two to eight—repeat eight — inches above their knees.

You can see them in the parks, on the streets, on the seaside promenades, on the buses, on the subways, in restaurants, at parties and even in church.

Whitsuntide is one of this country's biggest holidays. Whitsun is the seventh Sunday and the 50th day after Easter. The holiday began Saturday and ends at midnight Monday.

It gave the girls an opportunity to stage an unofficial style show that paled the Easter parade.

The Whitsuntide skirts have become so abbreviated that a name has been coined for their wearers: Ya-ya girls.

Etymologists say ya-ya comes from yeah-yeah and in its current usage is a double-barreled term of approval and appreciation. A sort of wolf-whistle broken up into a hyphenated word.

Ya-ya girls are, of course, nothing new.

Dad and Granddad knew them as flappers.

The ya-yas of 1962 are Britain's welfare state babies grown up, a generation of girls fed on government-supplied milk and orange juice.

They've got shapely legs—and they like to show them.

Four Deficits In First Term Are Forecast

Republicans Make Financial Policy Top Election Issue

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Republicans heard a prediction from former Budget Director Maurice H. Stans Monday that if present spending policies continue President Kennedy will pile up four deficits in his first term.

Republican National Committee members, meeting in a two-day precampaign session, hit hard at the issue that the Kennedy administration is not displaying the kind of fiscal responsibility the GOP said is necessary to lift the economy above its present pace.

Kennedy has submitted to Congress a precariously balanced budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. Some Democrats such as Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, have joined in predicting substantial deficits in that period.

Stans, who served as budget director for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, told the members that the "policies of the present administration, unless abruptly changed, are likely to produce four consecutive deficits.

Election Issue

Disclaiming any expertness as a politician, Stans said the Republicans have the opportunity in this year's congressional contests and in the 1964 presidential election to point up the financial issue.

"Only by so doing," he said, "can we reverse the trends in this country toward confiscatory taxation and unbridled spending, toward irresponsibility and mounting debt, toward centralization of government, toward concentration of power in the executive branch."

National Chairman William E. Miller told a news conference that if Kennedy's proposal for an income tax cut next year is not accompanied by a reduction in government spending it will lead to inflation. He indicated he thinks Kennedy won't cut expenditures.

"I think this issue is on our side," Miller said. "It is we Republicans who have consistently insisted on less government expenditure and reduced taxes."

Course Changed But Wrong Way

Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, pounded on the same theme.

Wilson said Kennedy had promised in 1960 to change the course of America and "this is one of the few campaign promises on which he has made good.

"But the change of direction has shattered the confidence of American business, eroded the boldness of the American investor, run up multibillion-dollar deficits, unbalanced the federal budget, produced the highest sustained rate of joblessness and the greatest number of business failures since the great depression, and the slowest recovery rate of any post-war recession.

"What America needs now is a return to the direction it was headed under President Eisenhower."

Food Riot Reported In Communist China

HONG KONG (UPI)— Chinese mobs have stormed a food rationing station in Communist-controlled Canton and other rioters battled police who blocked refugees from fleeing the hunger-stricken city, reports from there said Monday.

Other reports told of the open distribution of anti-Communist leaflets among Canton workers on three days during the first week of June.

The food riot occurred Sunday. Reports received by the Chinese language Seng Weng Evening News said Communist riot squads opened fire on the crowd, wounding at least 10. Scores of others were arrested, the paper said.

House Delays Action On JFK Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House leaders Monday called off scheduled House action this week on President Kennedy's embattled farm bill. No new date was set immediately to call up the measure.

In announcing the postponement House leaders gave no reason.

However, their action appeared to be tacit confirmation of reports that an advance count showed they lacked the votes to assure the bill's passage.

The measure, already passed by the Senate, calls for tight new acreage controls in return for government price supports on corn and other grains.

Standing beneath the sun-lit ancient elms of the university's Old Campus rectangle, Kennedy told some 12,000 persons that his critics are talking ancient cliches and refusing to face modern facts.

Debate Healthy At Right Time

Debate, he said, is healthy but "let us not engage in the wrong argument at the wrong time between the wrong people in the wrong country — while the real problems of our own time grow and multiply."

Kennedy made an oblique reference to charges that the recent stock market fall was brought on by lack of confidence in his administration.

It's a false issue, he said, to assume that "any and all unfavorable turns of the speculative wheel — however temporary and however plainly speculative in character—are the result" of lack of confidence in an administration.

Then he went on to say:

"The solid ground of mutual confidence is the necessary partnership of government with all the sectors of our society in the steady quest for economic progress."

Not Antibusiness

The administration, Kennedy said, is not antibusiness.

The President, a Harvard graduate of 1940, was one of 14 persons receiving honorary degrees at Yale's 261st commencement. His was a law degree.

In a speech uninterrupted by applause, Kennedy said too much of the recent economic debate had sounded like "old records, long-playing, left over from the middle thirties" and had been somewhat barren.

But he said he hoped it may "represent the start of a serious dialogue of the kind which has led in Europe to such fruitful colaboration among all the elements of economic society and to a decade of unrivalled economic progress."

U.S. Rejects Afghan Aid Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has rejected Afghanistan's request for a $350-million U.S. commitment to help finance a five-year, $700-million development program with the Soviet Union providing the rest.

Instead, American and Afghan officials said Monday, the United States is giving written assurance of intentions to continue long-term aid in coming years without specifying sums or dates.

Afghanistan has been heavily wooed by the Soviet Union and has been supplied with credits totalling $300 million by Moscow for both economic and military assistance.

Afghan Embassy officials here are disappointed at the U.S. decision and say it means the American aid program is being placed on an uncertain basis.

The United States has supplied Afghanistan with $182.5 million through last June 30.

About $38 million more was committed for this year but Afghanistan broke off relations with Pakistan. This snapped the mainland-access routes to the little landlocked South Asian kingdom that borders Pakistan on the south and the Soviet Union on the north.

Russ Protest Of U.S. A-Tests Circulated

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—At the request of the Soviet Union, the United Nations circulated as an official document Monday the Soviet government's statement protesting projected U.S. high-altitude nuclear tests in the Pacific.

The Soviet statement, issued June 3, charged the United States is extending the nuclear arms race into outer space.

AF Replaces Army In Satellite Project

Pentagon Acts To Speed Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shaking up the lagging military communications satellite program Monday, the Defense Department stripped the Army of the main development role and gave it to the Air Force.

The Army, which has been working on the "Advent" program for nearly two years, was left only the responsibility for the system's ground equipment while the Air Force develops the spacecraft.

A defense spokesman said the action is expected to result in the beginning of an operational system by 1964, rather than 1966. The military system would function entirely separately from the proposed worldwide civilian satellite communications system.

The spokesman refrained from criticizing the work of the Army, which has spent about $170 million on the project so far. Another $100 million has been sought for the coming year.

The compelling fact in the decision, he said, is that the 1,300-pound satellite now contemplated in the Army program would be too heavy for the rockets now available.

He said also project costs have been running high.

The objective will be a 500-pound satellite which can be lofted by the Air Force Atlas-Agena rocket combination, already a veteran of space experiments.

The spokesman said there would be little loss in efficiency in making the payload smaller.

The plan is to send up more than three and fewer than 10 microwave satellites to circle the earth in a 24-hour orbit around the equator. They would operate at an altitude of 22,300 miles and be used to relay voice and other messages almost instantaneously.

The system would be operated with a ground station near Camp Roberts, Calif. and another near Ft. Dix, N. J. A shipborne station also is planned.

The department also announced the Air Force will develop a second system of 40 or 50 smaller communications satellites which would move about the earth in a polar orbit from 5,000 to 7,000 miles up. It would have both voice and teletype channels.

Peru President Contest Heads For Congress

LIMA, Peru (AP)—With three leading candidates bunched, a decision in Peru's turbulent presidential election campaign appeared Monday to be headed for Congress.

If no candidate musters more than a third of the vote cast Sunday in a field of seven, then Congress must elect a president by July 28, under the constitution.

Press partisans of each of these three leading candidates were claiming their man was in the lead;

Former dictator Manuel A. Odria, a retired general and candidate of the National Odrista Union, considered a moderate;

Fernando Belaunde Terry of the leftist Popular Action party, who had Communist support; and

Victor Raul Haya de la Torre of the leftist but anti-Communist Apra party.

Haya was reported to have the secret backing of President Manuel Prado, who is ineligible to succeed himself.

Suspicious of Haya, Odria and Belaunde accused his backers of trying to line up fraudulent registrations and vowed there would be civil war if the election was rigged.

Long-Dormant Alaska Volcano In Eruption

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—Katmai Volcano, dormant since a violent explosion in 1912, was reported erupting intermittently Monday.

Navy pilots verified that it was spewing ash high in the sky.

Mt. Katmai, on the Alaska peninsula 100 miles north of Kodiak, is in the Katmai National Monument, known as the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes.

No one lives near Katmai but wild game is plentiful in the monument area.

British Ya-Ya Girls Wear World's Shortest Skirts

LONDON (AP) — Unfamiliar sunshine—which produces amazing effects on the British—brought forth this Whitsuntide holiday a crop of the world's shortest skirts.

"Historically," said clothes expert Madge Garland, "never before have women worn such short skirts."

For the last three days, girls by the hundreds have turned out with hemlines two to eight—repeat eight — inches above their knees.

You can see them in the parks, on the streets, on the seaside promenades, on the buses, on the subways, in restaurants, at parties and even in church.

Whitsuntide is one of this country's biggest holidays. Whitsun is the seventh Sunday and the 50th day after Easter. The holiday began Saturday and ends at midnight Monday.

It gave the girls an opportunity to stage an unofficial style show that paled the Easter parade.

The Whitsuntide skirts have become so abbreviated that a name has been coined for their wearers: Ya-ya girls.

Etymologists say ya-ya comes from yeah-yeah and in its current usage is a double-barreled term of approval and appreciation. A sort of wolf-whistle broken up into a hyphenated word.

Ya-ya girls are, of course, nothing new.

Dad and Granddad knew them as flappers.

The ya-yas of 1962 are Britain's welfare state babies grown up, a generation of girls fed on government-supplied milk and orange juice.

They've got shapely legs—and they like to show them.

Four Deficits In First Term Are Forecast

Republicans Make Financial Policy Top Election Issue

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Republicans heard a prediction from former Budget Director Maurice H. Stans Monday that if present spending policies continue President Kennedy will pile up four deficits in his first term.

Republican National Committee members, meeting in a two-day precampaign session, hit hard at the issue that the Kennedy administration is not displaying the kind of fiscal responsibility the GOP said is necessary to lift the economy above its present pace.

Kennedy has submitted to Congress a precariously balanced budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1. Some Democrats such as Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, have joined in predicting substantial deficits in that period.

Stans, who served as budget director for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, told the members that the "policies of the present administration, unless abruptly changed, are likely to produce four consecutive deficits.

Election Issue

Disclaiming any expertness as a politician, Stans said the Republicans have the opportunity in this year's congressional contests and in the 1964 presidential election to point up the financial issue.

"Only by so doing," he said, "can we reverse the trends in this country toward confiscatory taxation and unbridled spending, toward irresponsibility and mounting debt, toward centralization of government, toward concentration of power in the executive branch."

National Chairman William E. Miller told a news conference that if Kennedy's proposal for an income tax cut next year is not accompanied by a reduction in government spending it will lead to inflation. He indicated he thinks Kennedy won't cut expenditures.

"I think this issue is on our side," Miller said. "It is we Republicans who have consistently insisted on less government expenditure and reduced taxes."

Course Changed But Wrong Way

Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, pounded on the same theme.

Wilson said Kennedy had promised in 1960 to change the course of America and "this is one of the few campaign promises on which he has made good.

"But the change of direction has shattered the confidence of American business, eroded the boldness of the American investor, run up multibillion-dollar deficits, unbalanced the federal budget, produced the highest sustained rate of joblessness and the greatest number of business failures since the great depression, and the slowest recovery rate of any postwar recession.

"What America needs now is a return to the direction it was headed under President Eisenhower."

Food Riot Reported In Communist China

HONG KONG (UPI)— Chinese mobs have stormed a food rationing station in Communist-controlled Canton and other rioters battled police who blocked refugees from fleeing the hunger-stricken city, reports from there said Monday.

Other reports told of the open distribution of anti-Communist leaflets among Canton workers on three days during the first week of June.

The food riot occurred Sunday. Reports received by the Chinese language Seng Weng Evening News said Communist riot squads opened fire on the crowd, wounding at least 10. Scores of others were arrested, the paper said.

House Delays Action On JFK Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House leaders Monday called off scheduled House action this week on President Kennedy's embattled farm bill. No new date was set immediately to call up the measure.

In announcing the postponement House leaders gave no reason.

However, their action appeared to be tacit confirmation of reports that an advance count showed they lacked the votes to assure the bill's passage.

The measure, already passed by the Senate, calls for tight new acreage controls in return for government price supports on corn and other grains.

High Court Lets Stand Ruling On Watered Ham

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman lost in the Supreme Court Monday his fight to keep imitation label on smoked hams to which water has been added in the curing.

By refusing to listen to arguments on the question, the tribunal let stand a lower court ruling that ham still is part of a pig's thigh even though treated with a curing solution.

This left in Freeman's lap the question of whether to follow the Court of Appeal's suggestion that he merely require meatpackers to say on the label how much water is left in the ham when it is packaged. The lower court had denounced the secretary's imitation ham requirement as fantastic and deceptive.

Monday's ruling does not necessarily mean the Supreme Court agrees with the impassioned views about ham laid down by the appeals court, since the brief order gave no reason. But that some justices may have doubts about "When is a ham not a ham?" was indicated by the fact that Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice Hugo L. Black wanted to hear the case.

In other decisions the court:

1. Directed the lower federal courts to decide a legislature apportionment in New York State. It was the third such reapportionment ruling this term. The others involved state courts in Michigan and federal courts in Tennessee.

2. Turned down, 7-0, another appeal by Dave Beck Sr., 66, former Teamsters Union president. This time he had asked review of his five-year prison sentence and $20,000 fine on conviction of filing false federal income tax returns for the union in 1950 and 1952. Justice Byron R. White, recently appointed to the court, as well as Frankfurter, took no part in the decision.

Entertainers Will Testify

WASHINGTON (AP)—The problems of girl entertainers working in night clubs run by racketeers will get a public airing at hearings starting Tuesday before the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

Well-placed sources said stories involving prostitution and other abuses will figure in the testimony.

The subcommittee has announced only that it is zeroing in on allegations that the American Guild of Variety Artists has provided poor protection in some of the big cities for its entertainer members.

AGVA is a union affiliated with the AFL-CIO. It bargains collectively for about 13,000 entertainers employed at night clubs, cabarets, restaurants, circuses, burlesque houses and some hotels.

Apportionment Ruling Is Blow To Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A decision by the U.S. Supreme Court put new life Monday into an election-year issue that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has struggled to avoid — legislative reapportionment.

The nation's highest court ordered a lower federal court to reconsider arguments that New York City was being discriminated against in the distribution of seats in the New York State Legislature.

The lower court had rejected the arguments on the ground that the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution did not prohibit discrimination against voters on geographical grounds.

In New York State, as in the rest of the nation, the issue involves rural and semirural areas on one side and big cities on the other.

The problem is a particularly difficult one for Rockefeller. His basic political strategy has been an effort to retain support of upstate voters, who constitute the dackbone of the Republican party in New York State, and at the same time cut into the Democrats' big majorities in New York City.

Rockefeller is a candidate for re-election in November. If he makes a good showing, particularly in the large cities, his chances of winning the 1964 nomination for president will be improved considerably.

Democrats, aware of the efforts to cut into their New York City stronghold, are pressing reapportionment as a major campaign issue. If Rockefeller favored the present system, Democrats reason, he could alienate the New York City voter. If he agreed that cities were being discriminated against, he would be open to charges of political disloyalty by the Republican lawmakers from rural areas who have helped put through the governor's major state programs.

Democrats, trying to keep the governor in a political vise, have been clamoring for a special session of the legislature to begin changing the 98-year-old state constitutional formula under which legislative seats are distributed.

Winter Wheat Crop Forecast Lowered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department forecast Monday this year's wheat crop at 1,057,670,000 bushels.

This total is 28,828,000 less than the department's previous forecast of 1,086,498,000 bushels. Production last year was 1,234,705,000 bushels. Production for the 10-year (1951-60) average was 1,128,563,000 bushels.

The crop will be supplemented by a large reserve and surplus of about 1,380,000,000 bushels, as of July 1. This supply, most of it in the hands of the government under price support programs, was accumulated from past crops grown under control programs that failed to prevent overproduction.

S&L League Still Opposes Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Savings & Loan League said Monday it is just as opposed as ever to a withholding tax on interest and dividends.

The league said in Chicago that it had advised members against further protest mail to Congress members on the question, but not because of any change in attitude. The feeling was, the league said, that the concern of savers over the withholding proposal had been adequately demonstrated while some senators were complaining the mail volume had become a burden to them and their staffs.

The league advised Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon in a letter June 5 that it had suggested that letters from associations to their savers urging the mail campaign be discontinued.

This led to reports there had been an about-face by the league. In turn that touched off speculation in some news stories that the league was shifting positions because of concern that the administration might propose much higher taxes on savings and loan associations and mutual fund banks.

The Kennedy administration proposed that the tax on savings and loan associations be raised from $9 million to $500 million, but the House reduced this to $200 million before passing the bill.

The administration contends up to $850 million in taxes is lost each year because many taxpayers do not report income from interest and dividends. The bill would provide a withholding system on interest and dividends similar to the one in effect on wages and salaries.

In addition to withholding, the administration bill would provide for a tax credit to businesses which invest in new plant and machinery. President Kennedy has said this tax benefit to business is needed to spur economic growth.

More Aides For Finan Tentatively Approved

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Board of Public Works moved Monday to bolster the attorney general's staff for enforcement of the law regulating savings and loan firms in the state.

The board tentatively approved allocation of $15,000 to hire seven lawyers who will work on savings and loan cases on a parttime basis.

Atty. Gen. Thomas Finan had requested the help. Gov. Tawes said enforcement of the savings and loan law had created a "terrific work load" in Finan's office.

CAB Affirms Pilot Grounding In Plane Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board affirmed Monday the grounding of Ronald H. Conway, pilot of the Imperial Airlines plane that crashed at Richmond, Va. last Nov. 8.

Conway was one of two survivors of the accident that killed 74 military recruits aboard and three crew members.

The board denied Conway's appeal from a decision by CAB Examiner S. Thomas Simon upholding the emergency grounding action taken by administrator N.E. Halaby of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), immediately after the accident.

The board agreed his appeal in part on the argument that a plane captain superior to him in rank, James Greenlee—one of the crash victims — was actually in command even though Conway occupied the pilot's seat.

The plane was attempting an emergency landing at the time of the crash.

The CAB said that Conway's failure to fly immediately to the nearest available airport, after the failure of two engines, and his subsequent failure in three separate instances to take emergency action "constituted four separate acts operation of an aircraft."

The airplane, a Constellation, had left Columbia, S. C. earlier in the day and picked up Army recruits at Newark, N. J., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Baltimore on an assignment to fly them back to Columbia.

Only Conway and the flight engineer, William Poythress, survived the crash.

Milk Marketing Order Revision Would Up Price

BALTIMORE (AP) — Housewives would pay about a half a cent more for a quart of milk in the Baltimore - Washington area under an amendment to the federal milk marketing order proposed Monday.

The Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers Inc., a farmers' cooperative, proposed a chance in the prices which farmers receive for milk slated for drinking.

The cooperative proposed at hearing before a federal examiner that such prices be raised to $5.75 per hundred pounds for the period from July through February. The price from March through June would be $5.30 under the proposal.

Maurice Martin, assistant manager of the cooperative, said the price hike would, if enacted, boost the consumer price by about a half a cent a quart.

The marketing order affects parts of Western Maryland—including Frederick County—Baltimore City, Baltimore County, Anne Arundel County, Prince Georges County, Carroll County and the Eastern Shore.

Martin said the pricing provisions of the marketing order expire next Sept. 30. Hence, he said, a decision on the cooperative's proposal can be expected sometime this summer.

Maryland Cooperative has about 1,500 members in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Most of the members are in Maryland.

The cooperative's proposal, which represents a 20-cents-per-hundred-weight increase, comes in the face of a declining milk market. Observers interpreted the proposed hike as an attempt to hold the price line.

"The Secretary of Agriculture, in fixing the present level of prices, used a base period of 1958. We recommend that this base period be updated," Martin told Department of Agriculture examiner Jack W. Bain.

The Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative, a farmers' cooperative which supplies milk to three dairies in the Upper Chesapeake Bay marketing area, seconded the proposed price increase.

The hearings before Bain at the Southern Hotel resume Tuesday. Wednesday, the examiner moves to Arlington, Va. for further proceedings.

Small Predicts GOP Victory

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Frank Small, Republican nominee for governor, told a party rally in Hagerstown City park Monday night that Maryland Republicans now have "the energy, ability and vigor to deliver a sweeping Republican victory in the fall."

In a speech prepared for a picnic of the Women's Republican Club, Small praised David Scull of Montgomery County, new Republican state chairman.

"Mr. Scull is capable, hard-working leader who will bring new vitality to the Republican party in Maryland," Small said.

It was Small's first public appearance since the Republican State Convention in Baltimore last Saturday formally made him the party's gubernatorial nominee.

"This is a Republican year in Maryland," Small said. "But we must not let our wonderful opportunity slip by. We must have an effective organization in every county to bring to the attention of the voters our constructive program of progress for all of Maryland."

U.N. Official Resigns

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, The Congo (UPI)—Guatemalan Jose Rolz-Bennet, United Nations civilian chief in Katanga, will resign Tuesday to become an aide to Acting Secretary General Thant, it was reported Mnoday. He is expected to be succeeded by Jean Back, French chief press officer here.

George Washington never set foot on foreign soil. His only trip outside British Colonial America was a voyage to the West Indies in 1751.

Maryland News In Brief

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—An insect specialist at the University of Maryland says Maryland will not be invaded this year by the 17-year locust.

Dr. William E. Bickley, head of the Department of Entomology, said reports that there would be a locust infestation this year were false and the next scheduled appearance of the 17-year locust would not be until 1970.

DELMAR, Md. (AP)—Fly into Delmar's new airport and you might land in Maryland or Delaware—or both.

The private airport for light planes, dedicated during the weekend, straddles the Maryland-Delaware border as well as the Mason-Dixon Line.

OXFORD, Md. (AP)—The USS Talbot County, an LST, visited her namesake county during the weekend at this centuries-old colonial port.

The 156 officers and crewmen on the flat-bottomed landing ship were treated to a crab feast and went on a sightseeing trip through Talbot County, now celebrating its 300th anniversary. The tour included a stop at St. Michaels, which was bombarded by British ships during the War of 1812.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—St. John's College has honored a former chairman of its board of visitors and governors.

The liberal arts school bestowed upon Richard F. Cleveland, a Baltimore attorney, the title of honorary fellow during St. John's 170th commencement exercises Sunday. The college was founded in 1696 as King William's school.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judge Robert Hammerman cleared his throat Monday and told the defendant to "go ahead."

George Lacy turned and began walking out of Central Municipal Court, but a bailiff caught up with the 63-year-old bricklayer and escorted him back before the bench.

Judge Hammerman explained that "go ahead" referred to the testimony and not Lacy's freedom. At the conclusion of the hearing, Lacy was fined $10 for disorderly conduct.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The owner of a dry cleaning establishment in suburban Pikesville said four men beat him with a tire iron and robbed him of $64 Monday as he was opening his shop for the day.

First reports had said the men escaped with $1,000. The store owner, Robert Horn, 49, was taken to Sinai Hospital in Baltimore with a broken arm, possible broken nose and cuts of the face and scalp.

Police arrested five men for questioning soon after the robbery. Officers said they recovered the money plus Christmas club stamps worth $2,611.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The Rev. Gustave Weigel, noted Jesuit theologian at Woodstock College in Howard County, Md., received an honorary doctor of divinity degree Monday at the Yale University commencement addressed by President Kennedy.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The top man in the Roman Catholic school system in Baltimore was cool Monday toward the proposal by some Catholic educators that parochial students study part of the time in public schools.

"I can see so many problems involved in a shared time arrangement that at this tims I can't see how it would be practical," said the Rev. James C. Donohue, superintendent of schools in the Baltimore archdiocese.

"We educate the whole child, which the public schools cannot do. Our over-all philosophy should permeate the total child."

The idea behind the proposal was to relieve overcrowding at parochial schools and ease the financial burdens of the church.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Gov. Tawes toured the new consolidated headquarters of the Department of Motor Vehicles Monday, two days before workers begin a massive moving operation from three downtown Baltimore offices.

Officials estimate it will require some 200 truckloads to move the five million pounds of equipment into the new facility on Ritchie highway in suburban Glen Burnie.

In addition to the headquarters component, the new $4.5 million facility will accommodate the unsatisfied claims department and the financial responsibility division.

Counterfeit Ring Probe Continuing

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Raleigh police indicated Monday that several other persons may have been involved in the printing of counterfeit $20 bills which were confiscated in Maryland.

Hagerstown, Md., police arrested Roy Ellis Stahl, 45, of Raleigh, while he was making a purchase at drug store Friday. Later officers found a cigar box in Stahl's car which contained $8,840 in bogus $20 bills.

Detective Sgt. E. C. Duke said Monday that Stahl had been under investigation at Raleigh prior to his arrest in Maryland. Stahl added, "We are continuing our investigation," both of Stahl and of two or three other persons.

Duke said that police searched Stahl's home in Raleigh Saturday and found several partially printed $20 bills.

Former Member Of Civil War Commission Dies

BALTIMORE (AP) — Funeral services will be held in suburban Towson Wednesday for Karl S. Betts, who resigned from the Civil War Centennial Commission after a dispute last fall.

Betts, 70, collapsed Sunday while speaking at a ceremony commemorating the 220th anniversary of Saters Baptist Church in nearby Lutherville. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Betts resigned from the Civil War Centennial Commission last September after the group had voted 10-3 to dismiss him from the $17,600-a-year post and make him a consultant.

The commission made no public announcement, but there had been complaints about the management of Civil War observances, including talk of "too much Hollywood" in some of the affairs.

On another occasion, there was a controversy over a commission-sponsored meeting at a segregated Charleston, S. C., hotel which was attended by a Negro delegate from New Jersey.

After the commission voted to dismiss Betts, resignations were submitted by Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant III, commission chairman, and Adm. Stewart W. Ingersoll, chairman of its executive committee.

Betts, a native of Abilene, Kan., was a boyhood friend of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A representative of Washington and Baltimore brokerage firms before his appointment to the commission, Betts had been living in suburban Catonsville.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Myrna Trembly, of Kansas City, Kan.

Betts, a veteran of World War I, will be buried in Arlington, Va., National Cemetery.

Undefeated horses, have been several but they say the best was Kincsem, great European mare, who was never defeated in 54 starts.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 NT	2 NT
3 ♥	Pass	Pass	4 ♣
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♣

On the basis of information gleaned from his opponent's bidding, declarer cautiously mapped out the sequence of plays required to fulfill his four heart contract today.

East's bid of two no trump was the unusual no trump overcall requesting partner to name his best minor suit. South rebid three hearts, and West chose to pass, tho a four club call at this point would not strike us as being unduly aggressive. Partner's two no trump overcall is the equivalent of bidding both clubs and diamonds simultaneously, and West has a good fit for clubs in the form of several ruffing values. When the bidding reverted to East, he competed with four clubs. South's four heart bid was a calculated risk influenced by favorable vulnerability.

West dutifully opened the deuce of clubs and declarer ruffed away the jack. He tested the trumps first by laying down the ace and, when East failed to answer the call, complications had set in. On the basis of East's announcement of a two suited holding in the minors, it appeared reasonable to play him for five diamonds. Inasmuch as the dummy's only entry was in the trump suit, it would be premature to take an early diamond finesse, for West would no doubt be in position to ruff in on the second round. On this line of play South would lose two spades and two diamonds.

Declarer decided to draw trumps first, and make a delayed diamond play from his hand hoping to find West with a high spot in diamonds. After four rounds of hearts, South led the four of diamonds. West played the nine, dummy the jack and East the king. Declarer ruffed the club return, led over to the queen of diamonds and returned the five. East played the seven and South's eight won the trick. The ace of diamonds and the ace of spades brought declarer's trick total to 10.

Had East ducked the jack of diamonds, he would have been no better off. South merely returns the five of diamonds from the dummy, and East is obliged to play the ten to force out the ace. Declarer's eight of diamonds will now stand up on the fourth round for the game fulfilling trick.

On this line of play South would lose two spades and two diamonds.

Declarer decided to draw trumps first, and make a delayed diamond play from his hand hoping to find West with a high spot in diamonds. After four rounds of hearts, South led the four of diamonds. West played the nine, dummy the jack and East the king. Declarer ruffed the club return, led over to the queen of diamonds and returned the five. East played the seven and South's eight won the trick. The ace of diamonds and the ace of spades brought declarer's trick total to 10.

Had East ducked the jack of diamonds, he would have been no better off. South merely returns the five of diamonds from the dummy, and East is obliged to play the ten to force out the ace. Declarer's eight of diamonds will now stand up on the fourth round for the game fulfilling trick.

Alley Along Wills Creek Will Be Studied By City

The Mayor and Council yesterday held for study a recommendation of the city engineer for a proposed service alley along the Wills Creek flood channel from Bedford to Baltimore streets.

The service alley, which, it is believed, would help ease Mechanic Street congestion and allow easier delivery to stores located along the street, has been discussed for several years and recently was urged by the Downtown Retail Merchants Association.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum yesterday recommended that work be done by city forces and estimated it would cost $4,500. A portion of the work would be on a sewer and also cutting an opening through the flood wall.

A lot of odd jobs would be involved in the project, he said, adding he thought city forces could do the work since it would be difficult to cover all involved in a lump sum contract.

Also tabled for a week was a Board of Zoning Appeals recommendation that Roy A. Lewis be granted a permit to use 704-706 Montreal Avenue as a used car and used parts storage lot. The board said the permit should be so worded to avoid storage of damaged or junk vehicles or parts.

Council referred to Nuzum and City Attorney William R. Carscaden a report by Commissioner of Police and Fire Philmore Fleming who said he had been approached by a delegation protesting a beacon light atop a business place on LaFayette Avenue.

Guy Cook, 300 South Street, asked what council was going to do about the daylight garbage collection. He said he favored night collections since cans were left out on weekends by residents who had gone camping or on trips and the cans attracted flies, mosquitos and rats. Acting Mayor G. Ray Light said council is considering all reports on the daylight versus night collections and will have an answer in "a week or two."

The city also said it will request the person charged with removing certain properties on Hill Street to do so at once. Commissioner Fleming said the buildings should have been removed some time ago and at present are posing a hazard to children who play there and detract from nearby properties.

Fourth Degree To Elect Today

Chief Justice Taney, General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, will elect officers at a meeting today at 8:30 p. m. at the local K of C Home.

Brother D. Jeremy, F.S.C., principal, and Brother Thomas of the LaSalle High School faculty will speak.

LaVale Property Owners Protest Playlot Plans

A group of property owners in LaVale have registered protest to a recent published report of a meeting of the LaVale Zoning Board in connection with the establishment of a playground in that area.

Spokesmen for the group state no one of the some 20 families who have spoken out against the playground is opposed to such an area in itself. The principal objection, it is claimed, is that the LaVale Athletic Association has acted illegally and capriciously, without regard for the rights of property owners in the playground area.

From the beginning, according to the protesting LaVale group, its appeals for consideration have either been rebuffed or ignored. A request for a hearing before the LaVale Zoning Board was denied, it is charged, despite the fact the playground property was being cleared without a permit authorizing such action.

The hearing was granted only atfer intervention by a former board member on behalf of the property owners.

Pointing out the playground can materially affect the value of the residences in the Class A residential area, the property owners charge that even a simple request that a "ring of trees" be left around the sides of the playground facing homes was rejected.

If the trees had remained, it was explained, dust and noise from the playground would be filtered through a "buffer zone." Even more important, the property owners contend, is the threat to the lives of children in the area.

Entrance to the playground area is by way of Holly Avenue, a dead-end street, that has no sidewalks. Cars have been observed speeding on the street, endangering the lives of children and overrunning properties, the spokesmen sald.

Actual violations of the zoning ordinance are enumerated by them as: 1—the athletic association was allowed to "strip" the property without a permit; 2—the Zoning Board refused the property owners a hearing; 3—the Zoning Board issued a permit without requiring the Athletic Association to present their plans drawn to scale, and 4—the property was not properly inspected prior to issuance of the permit.

Noting that the published report on the recent Zoning Board meeting, stated that more than 200 evergreens have been planted on the playground, the property owners state an inspection shows but 76 seedling pines have been placed at the site.

Objection also was taken to identifying two of the property owners as "spokesmen for the opposition," it being explained that practically all of the property owners have made objection to what they term "steamroller tactics" of the Zoning Board and Athletic Association.

Retraining Course Extended

The machine tool training class that started in the spring has been extended from a 16-week course to a 20-week unit, according to J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocational education for Allegany County Board of Education.

The retraining program for residents of the tri-state area was started under the federal Manpower Training Act and will end June 22.

Cooperating in establishing the class was the County Board of Education, the State Department of Education, the U. S. Office of Education and the Maryland Employment Security Board.

Of the 25 men selected for the course, which included federal subsistence allowance for them during the 16-week program, 21 completed the course.

However, 19 of the class decided to continue on their own when the study was extended four weeks. Only two dropped out.

The job training committee which was established in connection with the course will meet Wednesday at the Allegany Trades School, Paca Street, to review the accomplishments of the current course and to decide on future classes.

Members of the committee are Walter Dyck, manager of the Cumberland Plant of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company; Lester C. Anderson of the Luke Mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company; G. William Harrison, manager of Allegany Instruments Company; H. I. Walter, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the B&O Railroad; G. J. Kifer of Amcelle Plant of Celanese Fibers Company; Francis Kenney, manager of the local office of the Maryland Employment Security Board, and Lonnholm.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials of normal regularity

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs frequently cramp and gripe. Of all leading laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONAID prevents the formation of dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONAID's unique rebulking action helps retone flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONAID acts gently on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

COLONAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONAID today! INTRODUCTORY SIZE 43¢

Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan, contacted at Cumberland, said the committee's arguments amount to a request for a unicameral (one-body) legislature in Maryland.

"There would be no distinction between the houses or at least a very tenuous distinction" if the Senate were to be based on population, he said.

Finan and Deputy Atty. Gen. Joseph S. Kaufman plan to argue the case against reapportionment of the Senate.

An appeal from Judge Duckett's decision is likely, whichever way he rules. The committee has said it will fight the issue through to the Supreme Court if necessary.

The state also can be expected to appeal any ruling for a Senate change, at least through the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials of normal regularity

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge.

Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs frequently cramp and gripe. Of all leading laxatives, only new COLONAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

Another View Of Russian Austerity

Seen from a country in which the garbage pails often contain as much food as has been eaten at the tables, Russian austerity looks bleak indeed.

After his grand tour of the United States and his glimpse of milk-fed chickens, sugar-cured hams and the general groaning abundance of American farms, Khrushchev promised the Russian people that it would not be long before they, too, were living high off the hog.

In a pig's eye. Instead, the scarcity of meat and dairy products has become critical. Population is increasing and agricultural production is not keeping pace.

Soviet planners have turned to incentives. More money for the collective farms and those who work on them. So prices of meat and dairy products have been jacked up one-third.

Capital earmarked for the expansion of heavy industry, defense and space projects could have been diverted to the collective farms. But that would have meant a slowing of the grand Soviet design to conquer the world. Instead, the people must pay more for butter and meat and live on the promise of better days to come.

The obedient Soviet people may not like the new edict, but they will accept it. But there is another side which should never be forgotten in the West. Good eating and luxury make people flabby. Lean and hungry people, as Shakespeare says, think too much and are dangerous.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

"Advise And Consent"

I rarely go to see motion pictures, limiting myself to the Late Show on television. However, I did go to see "Advise and Consent," as much out of curiosity as for enjoyment. I was tremendously impressed because of the unerring correctness of its presentation of the United States Senate.

I understand that there has been some objection to the varieties of personality portrayed. But that is precisely what the Senate is. No two Senators are alike. There is no Senatorial type and never has been in our history. The men who make the grade in the different states and finally land on top are of all sorts of backgrounds, of various ancestries. For instance, in the present Senate, Mike Mansfield and Eugene McCarthy are violently different from Frank Lausche and Jacob Javits, just as the states they come from are different. This is not a homogenous country.

Charles Laughton, in my opinion, carries off the lead. He plays the Southern Senator as a Southern Senator used to be. There are not many of that kind left in the Senate, but in a play, years and years ago, called "The Gentleman from Mississippi," precisely such a personality was portrayed by Tom Wise.

The Senate Majority Leader, played by Walter Pidgeon, indicated a profound portraiture. Few grasp what a Majority Leader is and what he does. Actually, he is the most important personality in the Legislative branch of government. When Lyndon Johnson was Majority Leader, he, a Democrat, often saved the Republican Administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower from falling on its face. Walter Pidgeon, I am sure, modeled himself on Lyndon Johnson.

I select these two from a large and notable cast because they make the Senate understandable. I am not at all concerned that the Producer, Otto Preminger, chose to make one Senator appear to be a homosexual and another a blabbermouth exhibitionist. There was such in the Senate, as there are fools and brilliant scholars, yappers and orators. This body is representative of a nation and our nation contains all kinds.

The homosexual cafe in New York seemed to me to be wasteful and unnecessary. It was dragged in for local color. Such places are to be found in Greenwich Village and in the Upper West Side and on Lexington Avenue. Preminger might have had a more usual incident to explain the Senator's fears of exposure for a distant past deed.

However, he chose this one which is plausible as a source for blackmail. It is for this reason that all such persons should be fired from all government agencies, particularly the State Department where they are always subject to blackmail.

I have not yet read the novel, "Advise and Consent," having more pressing engagements with the course of events, but the movie is excellent and the evening both enjoyable and informative to one whose life is full of Senators, Representatives and similar persons whose deeds make as much news as their words.

Our Congressional system is the savior of our form of government. Presidents are always pressed by the requirements of the moment. There are some who have been able to resist such pressures with greater ability than others, but there has been no President, not since the time of George Washington, who did not find the position harassing.

We are not a people who are respectful of authority. Few of us are willing even to assume that anyone who has devoted his entire life to the study of a subject may be expert in it. The modern scientists have developed a jargon which makes it increasingly difficult for the layman to discuss their subject with intelligence. But in the equally complex field of political science, everyone is an expert, even a mouse with the mumps, which refers to nervous and self-anointed alerters of public opinion. Well, the mouse with the mumps has a vote and a parcel of rights.

When it comes to Congress, however, that deliberating body through a series of committees, rules and blocking techniques delays action long enough so that things can be talked out. The Senate was correct in kicking Yugoslavia and Poland off the Foreign Aid list and even if the State Department got them to put these back — it is a temporary support of a Democratic President by a Democratic Congress. But the signal has been given and it will be heeded.

Senator Proxmire Earns Himself A Place In White House Doghouse

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Charlie and Pushinka, the White House pooches, may have to move over in their doghouse to make room for Sen. Bill Proxmire of Wisconsin, the Senate push-up king. Proxmire is a Democrat. But no Republican Senator is more unpopular with the President.

He first brought the wrath of the White House down upon his head by working with Mississippi's segregationist Sen. Jim Eastland inside the Senate Agriculture Committee to scuttle the heart of the Kennedy farm program.

The President, though piqued, overlooked Proxmire's antics and dutifully invited him to fly in the Presidential party to a big Democratic dinner in Wisconsin. Whether you're a Republican or a Democrat, a Presidential invitation is regarded as a command. You don't refuse such an invitation. But Proxmire happily snubbed the offer to ride with the President.

The last straw was Proxmire's part in the Senate vote to ban economic aid to Communist countries, which may go down as the year's worst diplomatic disaster. It had exactly the opposite effect that its backers presumably intended, by playing right into the Kremlin's hands.

Helping The Kremlin

The hasty Senate ban on Communist aid came precisely at the time Premier Khrushchev had called satellite leaders to Moscow for an economic conference. Its purpose was to tighten the Kremlin's hold on the satellites by weakening their economic ties with the West.

The Senate obliged Khrushchev by cutting those ties altogether and pushing the satellites right into Khrushchev's open arms — although it later partly corrected its' mistake.

It was the handsome, erratic Senator from Wisconsin who started the Senate on its disastrous course. He offered an amendment to suspend economic aid to Yugoslavia for one year. This was obviously a grandstand play, since Yugoslavia isn't scheduled to get much economic aid during the next year anyway.

But it was a slap at Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito and a boon to Khrushchev, who has had his troubles with Tito and is now courting him. Mr. K has invited Tito to come to Moscow this fall. So Proxmire obligingly provided a shotgun for a Khrushchev-Tito marriage.

The Senator from Wisconsin was careful not to include Poland in his resolution, although Poland is closer to the Kremlin than Yugoslavia and is scheduled to get considerably more economic aid. He knew that more Poles live in Milwaukee than in most Polish cities, and that they would like to see the old country weaned away from Moscow.

There are, however, almost no Yugoslavs in Wisconsin.

Lausche's Purple Oratory

But Ohio's bushy-haired Sen. Frank Lausche, another Democrat Maverick, is of Yugoslav parentage. Apparently he didn't want the Yugoslavs singled out for special discrimination. He jumped into the Senate debate with a demand that all Communist countries be shut off from economic aid.

The Senate got carried away by Lausche's purple oratory, plus the desire of Senators in an election year to prove to the voters how anti-Communist they are.

On the surface, a vote to stop aid from going behind the Iron Curtain would appear to be anti-Communist. But most Senators, aware of the subtleties of the East-West struggle, realized that the Proxmire-Lausche move would strengthen, not weaken, the Communist bloc. Nevertheless they put politics ahead of patriotism.

President Kennedy, shocked and surprised by the Senate action, sent his aides scurrying up to Capitol Hill to find out whether the damage could be undone.

Minnesota's fast-thinking Sen. Hubert Humphrey came up with the suggestion that eventually was adopted. He recommended to Presidential aides Larry O'Brien, Ralph Dungan and Mike Manatos that the State Department patch together a compromise, permitting the shipment of farm surpluses to Communist countries.

Humphrey pointed out this would not only help thwart Khrushchev's purposes but would relieve the bulging farm surplus problem.

The State Department submitted the Humphrey compromise to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which hastily approved it after slight modifications by GOP Sens. Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa.

Texas Tower Bristles

Next morning, Kennedy asked Sens. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, John Carroll of Colorado, and Humphrey to stay behind after a routine White House ceremony honoring the humanitarian, Dr. Tom Dooley.

The President pointed out that both Eisenhower and Truman had been given far broader authority in dealing with Iron Curtain countries. It was none other than the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, a rigid anti-Communist, who first sought aid for Communist Poland.

"This would seriously cripple our effectiveness in dealing with Iron Curtain countries," Kennedy told the Senators soberly.

"It plays right into the hands of Khrushchev," he added.

Kennedy also telephoned Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois to repeat the same appeal.

With their support, the Senate sheepishly reversed its earlier action at least to the extent of the Humphrey formula.

Note — Texas' little but loud Sen. Jack Tower, an uncompromising right-wing Republican, gave Dirksen a private tongue-lashing for helping to overturn the aid ban. "You have pulled the rug out from under us!" he bristled, his face livid with rage.

President Doesn't Understand U. S. Economy

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy still shows no awareness of the serious plight of the American economy today. At his Thursday news conference he made no mention of the continuing demands of labor-union leaders who seek to increase wage costs. Nor did he indicate any change in the administration's policy in forcing a "profit squeeze" by condemning price increases that are designed to take care of such labor costs. This dilemma, however, has been the basic cause of the stock market's recent collapse.

Mr. Kennedy chose instead to regard the market's fall as merely the natural result of the overpricing of securities and the ending of an era of inflation. He thinks it's all just speculative and —like President Hoover in 1929— he is arguing that conditions are fundamentally sound.

The President doesn't seem to have made up his mind just when a general tax cut that might be helpful to economic progress should be made. For he talked vaguely at his news conference about postponing action on such a measure till the session of Congress which begins next January. He said the bill could be made retroactive so it would take effect on the first of next year. But it's difficult to do this, as the whole nation of taxpayers will find it hard to estimate their taxes while Congress is debating a change in rates. Also, the President has tied into the same measure what he calls "offsetting" tax reforms to close "loopholes" and cut down loss of tax revenue. The President admits the net tax reduction will not be large. This will mean long debate and delay.

Maybe Mr. Kennedy thinks that Congress, which is to get the text of his tax proposals at the end of this summer, will be under such pressure from the people that an extra session may have to be called after the Congressional elections in November to enact the bill.

But these tactics could boomerang. The people would be voting then on an expectation instead of a concrete piece of legislation. Is this fair to the people? Aren't they entitled to know in advance what their taxes will be for the year ahead, and to have a chance to voice approval or disapproval at the polls? Practical politics may dictate the answer that it is better to keep the people guessing and let them hope they may get more than they really will. To tell them exactly how little they will receive — when they have been led to expect more — is not supposed to be a wise strategy a few weeks before an election.

The whole approach is political. The administration isn't really anxious to grant any tax cut. It doesn't actually plan to let the corporation-tax rate go down very much, if at all. The sop to the industrial world is supposed to be in the form of two tax benefits. One, which will not be enacted by law but by revising existing treasury regulations, would permit certain industries to shorten the period on which depreciation rates are computed. The other would be a law giving to certain industries an 8 per cent investment credit. But this applies only to new machinery and equipment. It doesn't cover the whole problem of modernization which confronts companies in the heavy-goods industries. This proposal has been before Congress for many months now. It has awakened little enthusiasm and a great deal of opposition. For it really doesn't solve the problem of depreciation rules which for many years have been in need of a general overhauling.

The bandying about of such figures as a tax credit of $1.3 billion for new machinery and a tax saving of $1.2 billion through the new depreciation rules and perhaps another $200 million in various reductions of special taxes — such as those on transportation — will give the impression that a substantial tax cut is being recommended by the President.

In an economy which is supposed to have a gross national output estimated at somewhere between $550 and $565 billion this year, these are relatively trivial tax reductions.

Mr. Kennedy talked also about the possibility of an $8 billion surplus in the federal budget if the economy were to operate at full capacity. This is a figure picked out of the air by his advisers who represent the school of thought which holds that a tax cut is periodically necessary to prevent too great a drain on the economy by taxes within a given period.

The American people, on the other hand, aren't worrying today about how the tax totals might theoretically become too big a slice of a prosperous economy. What they want to see first is a prosperous economy achieved. They then can worry about whether too much money is being taken out for taxes.

The real concern today is how to stimulate an economy in which profits have been squeezed by skyrocketing wage costs that have won the approval of an administration dependent for political support on the votes and campaign contributions furnished by union labor. The real issue isn't being faced — whether monopoly power on the wage-cost side is ever going to be broken up just as monopoly power on the management side is forbidden by law.

To promise tax cuts "across the board" in 1963 to individuals will spur consumer spending and bring back fears of inflation. To give the proposed tax cuts to a few businesses next year will not save those really in trouble today.

The President has not come to grips with the immediate situation. He is taking a big risk politically, too. He may get the surprise of his life in the November elections. It is customary for the people to vote against the party in power when an economic recession is on—and there are signs that the forecast by the stock market of continued recession is more likely to turn out to be true than the optimistic statements of a big recovery by next November being issued in political precincts nowadays in Washington.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PRIVATE INDUSTRY — President Kennedy is meeting a lot of resistance in Congress against his plan to increase the pay of government workers. To offset this, there has been a parade of government officials to Capitol Hill to try to change the minds of some Congressmen.

One of these officials, Director James E. Webb of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, gave Congress some figures on his own agency, charged with the vital work of developing the nation's space program.

NASA now has a staff of 21,000 men, of whom only 372 command an annual salary higher than Grade 15. This means less than 20 per cent of NASA personnel earns more than $14,000 a year.

In the next three years, Webb continued, NASA is scheduled to expand gradually to 31,000 employes. Many thousands of this total are in highly skilled and technical categories and government must compete for such men with private industry. A study shows that private industry consistently pays higher wages than government in most technical professions.

The result, said Webb, is that NASA, as well as other government agencies, find themselves in the position of acting as training grounds for private industry, with the cream constantly being skimmed off the top.

"This condition," he said, "makes it impossible to attain maximum effectiveness in many technical areas, but adds greatly to the cost and to the risk of too low a level of performance in critical performance areas."

Some NASA aides, adding to Webb's views, contend that the very people in Congress who oppose higher salaries for government employes are the ones who criticize the administration for lagging behind Russia in the space race.

Songs Of The Times

By John Crosby

I come from a generation when "I love you. I LOVE you. I L-O-O-O-V-E you" was considered the very last word in lyric writing. It said everything of importance to a lyric writer and it said it three times. Love was the only thing the lyric writer knew about, the only thing he believed in.

But now a new note is creeping in:

"The sound of money!

"The lovely sound of money," sings Eliot Gould in "I Can Get It For You Wholesale."

"I find it appealing

"A feeling

"You may share!"

That's the new and, on the whole, deplorable trend among the songwriters. No sloppy muck in there about LOVE. None of this gook about the softness of her skin, the feel of her lips; it's the smell of money sets the lyric writers quivering like a jelly. The same passionate detail those fellows used to spend rhapsodizing about the light in her eyes, they now spend expostulating on the uses of money:

"Diamonds catch my eye
"And I hear angels harmonize
"Sables passing by whisper lullabies.
"A great big yacht about to dock
"Makes such a couth and soothing sound
"A block of blue chip stock
"Music all around."

That (also from "The Sound of Money") is what you might call a song of passion about money. Nothing disturbing creeps in there. You might call it: "I Can Give You Everything But Love, Baby." However, there's a different kind of song in which money is important but not all-important; in which love still shares the stage but doesn't dominate it. For instance, in "No Strings" Diahann Carroll sings:

"I just want money
"And then some money
"And loads of lovely love!"

But then, of course, Richard Rodgers, who wrote that lyric, is a gentleman of the old school who hasn't quite washed all the love out of his hair. Just the same, the very fact that money gets equal billing—to say nothing of top billing—with love shows which way the wind is blowing. Love to a songwriter is getting to be just an extra felicity—like the wind and the rain in your hair. Nice but not necessary.

Those two songs are what you might call love songs about money. But there are other songs about money—blues songs about money, for example. In fact, there's a song now doing quite nicely among the disk jockeys called "The Minimum Wage," which is as heart-breaking a lament as anything Helen Morgan used to warble from the top of that piano.

"You work each day half around the clock
"You get your pay but you're still in hock.
"Your jeans are clean and there ain't a cent.
"The landlord comes but the rent is spent.
"The minimum wage, the minimum wage
"You sweat and slave till you're sixty-five
"And get the minimum pension if you're still alive . . .
"The rich get rich and the poor stay poor
"You're sick sick sick and there ain't no cure."

It's a darn good song written by three guys named Jay Solomon, Hy Glaser, and Sam Glaser, and it's certainly in the spirit of the times. Affluence or the lack of it has filled the songwriters' little hearts to bursting so that they have no thoughts for anything else.

Now that the stock market has gone to hell, I keep asking myself, what is this going to do to the songwriters? I'm working on my own lament for that occasion.

"The money's gone
"Every sou
"There's nothing left but YOU!
"Ugh!"
"Ugh!"

I have a lovely inner rhyme left over from the Affluent Age: "I have a sickening lust for the Guaranty Trust," and now that the great boom is over, what on earth will I do with it?

Shoulder-Hand Pain Follows Many Disorders

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An elderly patient of mine was recovering from coronary thrombosis and feeling fine. Eight weeks had elapsed since the heart attack and he was getting restless. It was at this time that he first noted aching and stiffness in the left shoulder.

A few days later the left hand also began to ache. By the end of the week he had a full blown shoulder-hand syndrome, an uncommon complication of heart trouble.

The condition usually develops as an aching sensation in one or both shoulders and the corresponding hand. The elbow escapes. Pain increases and the involved parts become stiff, swollen, and tender to the touch.

Distress varies from mild pain to complete inability to move the shoulder and arm (frozen shoulder). This part of the syndrome resembles bursitis. It is difficult to raise the shoulder and rotate the arm because of stiffness and discomfort.

Meanwhile the hand becomes puffy, smooth, taut, and glossy. The skin usually is pale but changes with activity to a dusky pink or cyanotic bule, and then becomes pale again. The fingers cannot be flexed because of stiffness and pain.

Physicians refer to this condition as a "reflex neurovascular response provoked by a variety of disorders." This is understandable because the shoulder-hand syndrome also follows other disorders such as stroke; fractures of the bones in and about the neck; and operations in the neck, chest, and abdomen.

The condition also is traced occasionally to a slipped disk in the neck with direct pressure on the nerve roots. In such instances, it is obvious why the nerves and blood vessels of the shoulder and arm are involved in this reflex. But why it follows stroke or a heart atack is more obscure.

The best remedies are physical therapy and hormones such as cortisone or ACTH. But the condition is stubborn and only 20 per cent get well if the syndrome lasts more than three months.

TOMORROW: The hidden alcoholic.

BONE DEFORMITIES

S. H. writes: Is Paget's disease of the bone unusual in a woman? I have heard it is a man's disease.

REPLY

Women develop this disorder but not as frequently as men. In this condition, the bones (usually of the skull, lower legs, and spine) alternately soften and harden and the ensuing deformity leads to various symptoms. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on Paget's disease of the bone.

ASTHMA AND DEVELOPMENT

J. V. writes: Does asthma interfere with a child's growth?

REPLY

Yes, especially when it disturbs sleep and appetite.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A frantic publisher sought out a psychiatrist and announced, "I need help. Every night I find little men running around under my bed." The doctor put him right on the couch, but the next day the patient called to say, "It won't be necessary for me to come back. I got rid of those nasty little men all by myself." "How did you accomplish that?" asked the doctor. "I had an inspiration," was the happy reply. "I just cut the legs off the bed."

At New York's Dutch Treat Club, the late Frank Crowninshield was once obliged to introduce a politician who had just been clobbered unmercifully in a bid for reelection to Congress. "Gentlemen," began Crowninshield in silky tones, "our next speaker bears a strong resemblance to the earth. You will recall that the earth is not a perfect spheroid, because it is flattened at the poles. That's precisely what happened to our next speaker."

The late Alice Duer Miller once caught a thief purloining her silverware. "What are you doing in my dining room?" she demanded. "Madam," admitted the thief, "I am at your service."

"I'll guarantee," added Miss Miller later, "that this is one criminal who won't waste his time in jail. He'll probably write his alibiography!"

After his grand tour of the United States and his glimpse of milk-fed chickens, sugar-cured hams and the general groaning abundance of American farms, Khrushchev promised the Russian people that it would not be long before they, too, were living high off the hog.

In a pig's eye. Instead, the scarcity of meat and dairy products has become critical. Population is increasing and agricultural production is not keeping pace.

Soviet planners have turned to incentives. More money for the collective farms and those who work on them. So prices of meat and dairy products have been jacked up one-third.

Capital earmarked for the expansion of heavy industry, defense and space projects could have been diverted to the collective farms. But that would have meant a slowing of the grand Soviet design to conquer the world. Instead, the people must pay more for butter and meat and live on the promise of better days to come.

The obedient Soviet people may not like the new edict, but they will accept it. But there is another side which should never be forgotten in the West. Good eating and luxury make people flabby. Lean and hungry people, as Shakespeare says, think too much and are dangerous.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

"Advise And Consent"

I rarely go to see motion pictures, limiting myself to the Late Show on television. However, I did go to see "Advise and Consent," as much out of curiosity as for enjoyment. I was tremendously impressed because of the unerring correctness of its presentation of the United States Senate.

I understand that there has been some objection to the varieties of personality portrayed. But that is precisely what the Senate is. No two Senators are alike. There is no Senatorial type and never has been in our history. The men who make the grade in the different states and finally land on top are of all sorts of backgrounds, of various ancestries. For instance, in the present Senate, Mike Mansfield and Eugene McCarthy are violently different from Frank Lausche and Jacob Javits, just as the states they come from are different. This is not a homogenous country.

Charles Laughton, in my opinion, carries off the lead. He plays the Southern Senator as a Southern Senator used to be. There are not many of that kind left in the Senate, but in a play, years and years ago, called "The Gentleman from Mississippi," precisely such a personality was portrayed by Tom Wise.

The Senate Majority Leader, played by Walter Pidgeon, indicated a profound portraiture. Few grasp what a Majority Leader is and what he does. Actually, he is the most important personality in the Legislative branch of government. When Lyndon Johnson was Majority Leader, he, a Democrat, often saved the Republican Administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower from falling on its face. Walter Pidgeon, I am sure, modeled himself on Lyndon Johnson.

I select these two from a large and notable cast because they make the Senate understandable. I am not at all concerned that the Producer, Otto Preminger, chose to make one Senator appear to be a homosexual and another a blabbermouth exhibitionist. There was such in the Senate, as there are fools and brilliant scholars, yappers and orators. This body is representative of a nation and our nation contains all kinds.

The homosexual cafe in New York seemed to me to be wasteful and unnecessary. It was dragged in for local color. Such places are to be found in Greenwich Village and in the Upper West Side and on Lexington Avenue. Preminger might have had a more usual incident to explain the Senator's fears of exposure for a distant past deed.

However, he chose this one which is plausible as a source for blackmail. It is for this reason that all such persons should be fired from all government agencies, particularly the State Department where they are always subject to blackmail.

I have not yet read the novel, "Advise and Consent," having more pressing engagements with the course of events, but the movie is excellent and the evening both enjoyable and informative to one whose life is full of Senators, Representatives and similar persons whose deeds make as much news as their words.

Our Congressional system is the savior of our form of government. Presidents are always pressed by the requirements of the moment. There are some who have been able to resist such pressures with greater ability than others, but there has been no President, not since the time of George Washington, who did not find the position harassing.

We are not a people who are respectful of authority. Few of us are willing even to assume that anyone who has devoted his entire life to the study of a subject may be expert in it. The modern scientists have developed a jargon which makes it increasingly difficult for the layman to discuss their subject with intelligence. But in the equally complex field of political science, everyone is an expert, even a mouse with the mumps, which refers to nervous and self-anointed alerters of public opinion. Well, the mouse with the mumps has a vote and a parcel of rights.

When it comes to Congress, however, that deliberating body through a series of committees, rules and blocking techniques delays action long enough so that things can be talked out. The Senate was correct in kicking Yugoslavia and Poland off the Foreign Aid list and even if the State Department got them to put these back — it is a temporary support of a Democratic President by a Democratic Congress. But the signal has been given and it will be heeded.

Senator Proxmire Earns Himself A Place In White House Doghouse

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Charlie and Pushinka, the White House pooches, may have to move over in their doghouse to make room for Sen. Bill Proxmire of Wisconsin, the Senate push-up king. Proxmire is a Democrat. But no Republican Senator is more unpopular with the President.

He first brought the wrath of the White House down upon his head by working with Mississippi's segregationist Sen. Jim Eastland inside the Senate Agriculture Committee to scuttle the heart of the Kennedy farm program.

The President, though piqued, overlooked Proxmire's antics and dutifully invited him to fly in the Presidential party to a big Democratic dinner in Wisconsin. Whether you're a Republican or a Democrat, a Presidential invitation is regarded as a command. You don't refuse such an invitation. But Proxmire happily snubbed the offer to ride with the President.

The last straw was Proxmire's part in the Senate vote to ban economic aid to Communist countries, which may go down as the year's worst diplomatic disaster. It had exactly the opposite effect that its backers presumably intended, by playing right into the Kremlin's hands.

Helping The Kremlin

The hasty Senate ban on Communist aid came precisely at the time Premier Khrushchev had called satellite leaders to Moscow for an economic conference. Its purpose was to tighten the Kremlin's hold on the satellites by weakening their economic ties with the West.

The Senate obliged Khrushchev by cutting those ties altogether and pushing the satellites right into Khrushchev's open arms — although it later partly corrected its mistake.

It was the handsome, erratic Senator from Wisconsin who started the Senate on its disastrous course. He offered an amendment to suspend economic aid to Yugoslavia for one year. This was obviously a grandstand play, since Yugoslavia isn't scheduled to get much economic aid during the next year anyway.

But it was a slap at Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito and a boon to Khrushchev, who has had his troubles with Tito and is now courting him. Mr. K has invited Tito to come to Moscow this fall. So Proxmire obligingly provided a shotgun for a Khrushchev-Tito marriage.

The Senator from Wisconsin was careful not to include Poland in his resolution, although Poland is closer to the Kremlin than Yugoslavia and is scheduled to get considerably more economic aid. He knew that more Poles live in Milwaukee than in most Polish cities, and that they would like to see the old country weaned away from Moscow.

There are, however, almost no Yugoslavs in Wisconsin.

Lausche's Purple Oratory

But Ohio's bushy-haired Sen. Frank Lausche, another Democrat Maverick, is of Yugoslav parentage. Apparently he didn't want the Yugoslavs singled out for special discrimination. He jumped into the Senate debate with a demand that all Communist countries be shut off from economic aid.

The Senate got carried away by Lausche's purple oratory, plus the desire of Senators in an election year to prove to the voters how anti-Communist they are.

On the surface, a vote to stop aid from going behind the Iron Curtain would appear to be anti-Communist. But most Senators, aware of the subtleties of the East-West struggle, realized that the Proxmire-Lausche move would strengthen, not weaken, the Communist bloc. Nevertheless they put politics ahead of patriotism.

President Kennedy, shocked and surprised by the Senate action, sent his aides scurrying up to Capitol Hill to find out whether the damage could be undone.

Minnesota's fast-thinking Sen. Hubert Humphrey came up with the suggestion that eventually was adopted. He recommended to Presidential aides Larry O'Brien, Ralph Dungan and Mike Manatos that the State Department patch together a compromise, permitting the shipment of farm surpluses to Communist countries.

Humphrey pointed out this would not only help thwart Khrushchev's purposes but would relieve the bulging farm surplus problem.

The State Department submitted the Humphrey compromise to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which hastily approved it after slight modifications by GOP Sens. Everett Dirksen of Illinois and Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa.

Texas Tower Bristles

Next morning, Kennedy asked Sens. Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, John Carroll of Colorado, and Humphrey to stay behind after a routine White House ceremony honoring the humanitarian, Dr. Tom Dooley.

The President pointed out that both Eisenhower and Truman had been given far broader authority in dealing with Iron Curtain countries. It was none other than the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, a rigid anti-Communist, who first sought aid for Communist Poland.

"This would seriously cripple our effectiveness in dealing with Iron Curtain countries," Kennedy told the Senators soberly.

"It plays right into the hands of Khrushchev," he added.

Kennedy also telephoned Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois to repeat the same appeal.

With their support, the Senate sheepishly reversed its earlier action at least to the extent of the Humphrey formula.

Note — Texas' little but loud Sen. Jack Tower, an uncompromising right-wing Republican, gave Dirksen a private tongue-lashing for helping to overturn the aid ban. "You have pulled the rug out from under us!" he bristled, his face livid with rage.

President Doesn't Understand U. S. Economy

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy still shows no awareness of the serious plight of the American economy today. At his Thursday news conference he made no mention of the continuing demands of labor-union leaders who seek to increase wage costs. Nor did he indicate any change in the administration's policy in forcing a "profit squeeze" by condemning price increases that are designed to take care of such labor costs. This dilemma, however, has been the basic cause of the stock market's recent collapse.

Mr. Kennedy chose instead to regard the market's fall as merely the natural result of the overpricing of securities and the ending of an era of inflation. He thinks it's all just speculative and —like President Hoover in 1929— he is arguing that conditions are fundamentally sound.

The President doesn't seem to have made up his mind just when a general tax cut that might be helpful to economic progress should be made. For he talked vaguely at his news conference about postponing action on such a measure till the session of Congress which begins next January. He said the bill could be made retroactive so it would take effect on the first of next year. But it's difficult to do this, as the whole nation of taxpayers will find it hard to estimate their taxes while Congress is debating a change in rates. Also, the President has tied into the same measure what he calls "offsetting" tax reforms to close "loopholes" and cut down loss of tax revenue. The President admits the net tax reduction will not be large. This will mean long debate and delay.

Maybe Mr. Kennedy thinks that Congress, which is to get the text of his tax proposals at the end of this summer, will be under such pressure from the people that an extra session may have to be called after the Congressional elections in November to enact the bill.

But these tactics could boomerang. The people would be voting then on an expectation instead of a concrete piece of legislation. Is this fair to the people? Aren't they entitled to know in advance what their taxes will be for the year ahead, and to have a chance to voice approval or disapproval at the polls? Practical politics may dictate the answer that it is better to keep the people guessing and let them hope they may get more than they really will. To tell them exactly how little they will receive — when they have been led to expect more — is not supposed to be a wise strategy a few weeks before an election.

The whole approach is political. The administration isn't really anxious to grant any tax cut. It doesn't actually plan to let the corporation-tax rate go down very much, if at all. The sop to the industrial world is supposed to be in the form of two tax benefits. One, which will not be enacted by law but by revising existing treasury regulations, would permit certain industries to shorten the period on which depreciation rates are computed. The other would be a law giving to certain industries an 8 per cent investment credit. But this applies only to new machinery and equipment. It doesn't cover the whole problem of modernization which confronts companies in the heavy-goods industries. This proposal has been before Congress for many months now. It has awakened little enthusiasm and a great deal of opposition. For it really doesn't solve the problem of depreciation rules which for many years have been in need of a general overhauling.

The bandying about of such figures as a tax credit of $1.3 billion for new machinery and a tax saving of $1.2 billion through the new depreciation rules and perhaps another $200 million in various reductions of special taxes — such as those on transportation — will give the impression that a substantial tax cut is being recommended by the President. In an economy which is supposed to have a gross national output estimated at somewhere between $550 and $565 billion this year, these are relatively trivial tax reductions.

Mr. Kennedy talked also about the possibility of an $8 billion surplus in the federal budget if the economy were to operate at full capacity. This is a figure picked out of the air by his advisers who represent the school of thought which holds that a tax cut is periodically necessary to prevent too great a drain on the economy by taxes within a given period.

The American people, on the other hand, aren't worrying today about how the tax totals might theoretically become too big a slice of a prosperous economy. What they want to see first is a prosperous economy achieved. They then can worry about whether too much money is being taken out for taxes.

The real concern today is how to stimulate an economy in which profits have been squeezed by skyrocketing wage costs that have won the approval of an administration dependent for political support on the votes and campaign contributions furnished by union labor. The real issue isn't being faced — whether monopoly power on the wage-cost side is ever going to be broken up just as monopoly power on the management side is forbidden by law.

To promise tax cuts "across the board" in 1963 to individuals will spur consumer spending and bring back fears of inflation. To give the proposed tax cuts to a few businesses next year will not save those really in trouble today.

The President has not come to grips with the immediate situation. He is taking a big risk politically, too. He may get the surprise of his life in the November elections. It is customary for the people to vote against the party in power when an economic recession is on—and there are signs that the forecast by the stock market of continued recession is more likely to turn out to be true than the optimistic statements of a big recovery by next November being issued in political precincts nowadays in Washington.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PRIVATE INDUSTRY — President Kennedy is meeting a lot of resistance in Congress against his plan to increase the pay of government workers. To offset this, there has been a parade of government officials to Capitol Hill to try to change the minds of some Congressmen.

One of these officials, Director James E. Webb of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, gave Congress some figures on his own agency, charged with the vital work of developing the nation's space program.

NASA now has a staff of 21,000 men, of whom only 372 command an annual salary higher than Grade 15. This means less than 20 per cent of NASA personnel earns more than $14,000 a year.

In the next three years, Webb continued, NASA is scheduled to expand gradually to 31,000 employes. Many thousands of this total are in highly skilled and technical categories and government must compete for such men with private industry. A study shows that private industry consistently pays higher wages than government in most technical professions.

The result, said Webb, is that NASA, as well as other government agencies, find themselves in the position of acting as training grounds for private industry, with the cream constantly being skimmed off the top.

"This condition," he said, "makes it impossible to attain maximum effectiveness in many technical areas, but adds greatly to the cost and to the risk of too low a level of performance in critical performance areas."

Some NASA aides, adding to Webb's views, contend that the very people in Congress who oppose higher salaries for government employes are the ones who criticize the administration for lagging behind Russia in the space race.

Shoulder-Hand Pain Follows Many Disorders

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

An elderly patient of mine was recovering from coronary thrombosis and feeling fine. Eight weeks had elapsed since the heart attack and he was getting restless. It was at this time that he first noted aching and stiffness in the left shoulder.

A few days later the left hand also began to ache. By the end of the week he had a full blown shoulder-hand syndrome, an uncommon complication of heart trouble.

The condition usually develops as an aching sensation in one or both shoulders and the corresponding hand. The elbow escapes. Pain increases and the involved parts become stiff, swollen, and tender to the touch.

Distress varies from mild pain to complete inability to move the shoulder and arm (frozen shoulder). This part of the syndrome resembles bursitis. It is difficult to raise the shoulder and rotate the arm because of stiffness and discomfort.

Meanwhile the hand becomes puffy, smooth, taut, and glossy. The skin usually is pale but changes with activity to a dusky pink or cyanotic bule, and then becomes pale again. The fingers cannot be flexed because of stiffness and pain.

Physicians refer to this condition as a "reflex neurovascular response provoked by a variety of disorders." This is understandable because the shoulder-hand syndrome also follows other disorders such as stroke; fractures of the bones in and about the neck; and operations in the neck, chest, and abdomen.

The condition also is traced occasionally to a slipped disk in the neck with direct pressure on the nerve roots. In such instances, it is obvious why the nerves and blood vessels of the shoulder and arm are involved in this reflex. But why it follows stroke or a heart atack is more obscure.

The best remedies are physical therapy and hormones such as cortisone or ACTH. But the condition is stubborn and only 20 per cent get well if the syndrome lasts more than three months.

BONE DEFORMITIES

S. H. writes: Is Paget's disease of the bone unusual in a woman? I have heard it is a man's disease.

REPLY

Women develop this disorder but not as frequently as men. In this condition, the bones (usually of the skull, lower legs, and spine) alternately soften and harden and the ensuing deformity leads to various symptoms. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on Paget's disease of the bone.

ASTHMA AND DEVELOPMENT

J. V. writes: Does asthma interfere with a child's growth?

REPLY

Yes, especially when it disturbs sleep and appetite.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A frantic publisher sought out a psychiatrist and announced, "I need help. Every night I find little men running around under my bed." The doctor put him right on the couch, but the next day the patient called to say, "It won't be necessary for me to come back. I got rid of those nasty little men all by myself." "How did you accomplish that?" asked the doctor. "I had an inspiration," was the happy reply. "I just cut the legs off the bed."

At New York's Dutch Treat Club, the late Frank Crowninshield was once obliged to introduce a politician who had just been clobbered unmercifully in a bid for reelection to Congress. "Gentlemen," began Crowninshield in silky tones, "our next speaker bears a strong resemblance to the earth. You will recall that the earth is not a perfect spheroid, because it is flattened at the poles. That's precisely what happened to our next speaker."

The late Alice Duer Miller once caught a thief purloining her silverware. "What are you doing in my dining room?" she demanded. "Madam," admitted the thief, "I am at your service."

"I'll guarantee," added Miss Miller later, "that this is one criminal who won't waste his time in jail. He'll probably write his alibiography!"

Songs Of The Times

By John Crosby

I come from a generation when "I love you. I LOVE you. I L-O-O-O-V-E you" was considered the very last word in lyric writing. It said everything of importance to a lyric writer and it said it three times. Love was the only thing the lyric writer knew about, the only thing he believed in.

But now a new note is creeping in:

"The sound of money!

"The lovely sound of money," sings Eliot Gould in "I Can Get It For You Wholesale."

"I find it appealing
"A feeling
"You may share!"

That's the new and, on the whole, deplorable trend among the songwriters. No sloppy muck in there about LOVE. None of this gook about the softness of her skin, the feel of her lips; it's the smell of money sets the lyric writers quivering like a jelly. The same passionate detail those fellows used to spend rhapsodizing about the light in her eyes, they now spend expostulating on the uses of money:

"Diamonds catch my eye
"And I hear angels harmonize
"Sables passing by whisper lullabies.
"A great big yacht about to dock
"Makes such a couth and soothing sound
"A block of blue chip stock
"Music all around."

That (also from "The Sound of Money") is what you might call a song of passion about money. Nothing disturbing creeps in there. You might call it: "I Can Give You Everything But Love, Baby." However, there's a different kind of song in which money is important but not all-important; in which love still shares the stage but doesn't dominate it. For instance, in "No Strings" Diahann Carroll sings:

"I just want money
"And then some money
"And loads of lovely love!"

But then, of course, Richard Rodgers, who wrote that lyric, is a gentleman of the old school who hasn't quite washed all the love out of his hair. Just the same, the very fact that money gets equal billing—to say nothing of top billing—with love shows which way the wind is blowing. Love to a songwriter is getting to be just an extra felicity—like the wind and the rain in your hair. Nice but not necessary.

Those two songs are what you might call love songs about money. But there are other songs about money—blues songs about money, for example. In fact, there's a song now doing quite nicely among the disk jockeys called "The Minimum Wage," which is as heart-breaking a lament as anything Helen Morgan used to warble from the top of that piano.

"You work each day half around the clock
"You get your pay but you're still in hock.
"Your jeans are clean and there ain't a cent.
"The landlord comes but the rent is spent.
"The minimum wage, the minimum wage
"You sweat and slave till you're sixty-five
"And get the minimum pension if you're still alive . . .
"The rich get rich and the poor stay poor
"You're sick sick sick and there ain't no cure."

It's a darn good song written by three guys named Jay Solomon, Hy Glaser, and Sam Glaser, and it's certainly in the spirit of the times. Affluence or the lack of it has filled the songwriters' little hearts to bursting so that they have no thoughts for anything else.

Now that the stock market has gone to hell, I keep asking myself, what is this going to do to the songwriters? I'm working on my own lament for that occasion.

"The money's gone
"Every sou
"There's nothing left but YOU!
"Ugh!"
"Ugh!"

I have a lovely inner rhyme left over from the Affluent Age: "I have a sickening lust for the Guaranty Trust," and now that the great boom is over, what on earth will I do with it?

Arnold Palmer To Play In National Open Despite Finger Injury

Leading Money Winner Hurt In Freak Accident

Rips Finger On Car Trunk; Doctor Says Star Is OK To Play

OAKMONT, Pa., (AP) — Arnold Palmer's hopes of winning the 62nd National Open Golf Championship received another setback Monday in the form of a freak accident which ripped open the third finger of his right hand, but the tournament favorite vowed, "I'll play."

Already harassed by a nagging cold, fatigue and a slump, the year's leading money winner saw his miseries multiplied Sunday night after returning home from the $100,000 Golf Classic at Clifton, N.J.

Transferring luggage from his private twin-engine plane to his automobile at the Latrobe, Pa., airport, he gashed his finger on the trunk of the car.

The severe cut went all the way to the bone and required six stitches. Monday the joint of the finger was swollen to nearly double its normal size.

"One doctor told me I shouldn't swing a club for 24 hours, but my family doctor said it would be okay," Palmer said, "so I decided to give it a try."

He reported to Oakmont, where the Open gets started Thursday, and, with the finger heavily bandaged and medicated, hit practice shots for three-quarters of an hour and then teed off on a tour of the course.

"It doesn't feel too bad now," Palmer said.

"I don't know how it will act up later, but I definitely intend to play."

Palmer is still sniffling from a cold which struck him three weeks ago and his game hasn't measured up to that which has earned him six tournament titles, including the Masters, and some $60,000 this year. He shot 290 in last weekend's Golf Classic at Upper Montclair, N.J., Country Club, 15 shots back of the winner, Gene Littler.

"I'm not worried about a slump now," Palmer said. "I feel fine. I'm hitting the ball okay again. I just don't want anything like this finger to pop up and bother me now."

Keyser Defeats Lonaconing, 2-1

Zihlman Is Victor Over Midland, 3-1

Jay Shaw's two-run doubl in the fourth inning gave Keyser a 2-1 decision over Lonaconing in a Twilight Baseball League game staged yesterday at Keyser.

Lonaconing scored its only run in the first inning when Dick Rawlings walked the bases full and uncorked a wild pitch but he settled down and blanked the visitors the remainder of the route.

Dale Ramsburg led off the fourth with a single, Joe Pezzanite walked and both runners advanced by Jim Chidester's sacrifice. Then Shaw doubled to right-center to send home the tying and winning runs.

Rawlings yielded only three hits and struck out five and issued five passes.

Ramsburg and Shaw shared four of the seven hits yielded by Jack Budries. Lonaconing's hits were singles by Johnson, Miller and Shockey.

Pat Folk outdueled Francis Allen and Paul "Bubbles" Thompson to give Zihlman a 3-1 victory over Midland at Zihlman.

Zihlman scored all its runs in the first two innings and knocked Allen out of the box. Thompson hurled shutout ball the last four frames.

Each team was limited to three hits. Bobby Deffenbaugh rapped a double and John Blank and Andy Felker had singles for Zihlman. Frank Buskirk, Kenny Johnson and Bobby Mundeno had base knocks for Midland.

The Westernport at Barton and the Cumberland at Franklin games were postponed on account of rain.

Kirkland Bats In Five Runs As Cleveland Wins

Jim Perry Blanks Boston Sox, 10-0

BOSTON (AP) — Casual Willie Kirkland drove in five Cleveland runs with a homer and double, backing up Jim Perry's sharp pitching for a 10-0 victory over Boston Monday.

The Tribe triumph, touched off by a controversial balk, kept the Indians in the midst of the tense American League battle for first place.

Two walks and a single had loaded the bases in the fourth inning when loser Earl Wilson was charged with a balk and the first run of the game was waved across the plate.

Perry was sharp, scattering seven hits in his shutout effort for his fifth victory this season. The strongest effort came in the fifth inning when, with runners on second and third, he struck out Wilson and Pumpsie Green in order to kill the threat.

A hassle developed on the balk called on Wilson.

The Red Sox complained bitterly that Cleveland's Tito Francona, running at first base, had hollered, "Hold it, Earl," causing the pitcher to half step-half stumble off the mound.

Baseball rules state such deceptive talk is illegal but Umpires John Flaherty and Ed Runge were emphatic they had not heard it.

Wilson was a regular end for three seasons on Miami's football team. Friday said Wilson turned down six offers to play professional football.

Wilson was assigned to the Athletics Class D farm club at Minot, N.D.

Clower Is Surprised By Coach-Of-Year Tag

"Biz" Dawson Retiring New Track In Trouble

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN Clement Clower was named NAIA Area 7 Coach-of-the-Year it came as "quite a surprise" to him, according to a letter we have received from the Salem College athletic director and baseball mentor.

"I guess it is one of those once in a lifetime situations," he says.

Coach Clower's Tigers won the West Virginia Conference baseball title for the first time since 1948 and ended the regular season with a 9-1 record, including a 3-1 decision over West Virginia University.

Salem played in the NAIA Area 7 tourney at Statesboro, Ga., and was eliminated by Carson-Newman of Tennessee.

The area in which Clower was named Coach-of-the-Year includes schools from Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Tennessee, North and South Carolina and West Virginia.

This was one of Salem's best years in athletics. The football team finished second in the W.V.C. and the football team took third place.

Salem, incidentally, holds the distinction of having two of its mentors selected as coaches-of-the-year. Don Christie, the basketball mentor, was bestowed that honor by the West Virginia Conference.

Clower hails from Petersburg where he was born April 1, 1920. He was graduated from Petersburg High School in 1937, served in the army from 1942 to 1945 and returned to Salem where he received his A.B. in 1947, majoring in physical education and social studies. In 1958 he received his M.S. in recreation from West Virginia University.

Clem was assistant coach in all sports at Petersburg High School before he went to Salem in 1955. He has coached basketball, football and baseball there. Ted Underwood is now grid mentor and Christie handles the basketball reins.

Clower was sports columnist for the Grant County Press at Petersburg and has been a Deacon in the Presbyterian Church there since 1945.

And last but not least, Clem was one of the best sports reporters in nearby West Virginia in the days he was coaching at Petersburg High School.

FROM Fairmont, W. Va., comes the news that Paul "Biz" Dawson is retiring from school work.

Dawson has been one of the state's most successful coaches and since quitting the coaching ranks after a 25-year stint he has served as principal for nine years in Fairmont junior high schools.

Under Dawson, West Fairmont High won three state basketball titles and two football championships.

"Biz" will be remembered by Cumberland "oldtimers" as one of the star outfielders of the Fairmont Black Diamonds in 1925, the first year of the Middle Atlantic League. His teammates that year included Art Cousins, Pete Monahan, "Chip" Helmick, Tony Cyran and Bert Grimm.

The Cumberland Colts of that year were Johnny Byrnes, Tommy Ray, "Dutch" Haber, Ted Musante, Harold Egbert, "Shovel" Hodge, Paul Secrist, Jimmy Duffy, "Swede" Forsburg, Harry McEnroe, Lawrence "Babe" Fisher, Eddie Conley, "Shine" Cortazzo, "Hank" Rangow, Neal Dougherty and Petey Gallupe.

Dawson, incidentally, was a three sports star at West Virginia University about 40 years ago.

THE Cumberland Fair Association is transferring its 12-day race meeting to another Maryland track for the third time in four years because of the lack of thoroughbreds but up at the new track known as Finger Lakes, or "The Thumb" at Canandaigua, N. Y., they are not only having a tough time getting horses but their daily mutuel handle has stockholders alarmed.

One day last week the attendance skidded to 1,135 and the mutuel pool was $87,997 for eight races.

The investment at Finger Lakes runs into the millions and many persons purchased stock in the new plant.

Homer By Payton Enables Snyder's To Edge P.E., 5-4

A three-run circuit belt by Gene Payton in the sixth inning enabled Snyder's Grocery to edge Potomac Edison in a Rec Softball League game yesterday at Naval Reserve Field by the score of 5-4.

The win gave Snyder's a 4-2 record while P.E. absorbed its sixth straight defeat.

Bill Kenney went the route for the Grocers, yielded four hits and struck out five. Burkett and Wilson shared the losers' four blows.

Braves Sign Arizona Soph For $100,000

Daniel Schneider, 19, Much Sought Pitcher

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Daniel Schneider, 19, Tucson, Ariz., one of the most sought-after young pitchers in the nation, was signed to a farm club contract Monday by the Milwaukee Braves for a bonus reportedly in the $100,000 bracket.

Schneider, a sophomore at the University of Arizona, was signed to a contract with Louisville in the American Association by scout John Moore.

Schneider, 6-foot-3, 190 pounds, won six games without a loss in his freshman year and had a 13-1 record in the past college season, posting his 13 victories in a row. Five of his 13 victories were shutouts and in one game he struck out 20 batters. He had 130 strikeouts for the season.

The Braves also signed an Orlando, Fla., high school pitching star for their Dublin, Ga., farm club in the Class D Georgia-Florida League.

The young right-hander, Gary Jenkins, 17, had an 8-2 record with 127 strikeouts in 60 innings of play for Edgewater High School. He is 6-feet-2 and weighs 175 pounds.

Giants Call Lemay, Perry Farmed Out

CINCINNATI, (AP) — The slumping San Francisco Giants recalled pitcher Dick Lemay from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League and sent hurler Gaylord Perry down to replace him.

Lemay, a Cincinnatian, was with the Giants until about mid-May when he was sent to Tacoma. He is a left-hander.

Perry, a right-hander, who had a 16-10 record with Tacoma last year, has been with the Giants all season and has a 2-1 mark.

The Giants have been having their pitching troubles in their current slump which has seen them lose the National League lead and drop 2½ games behind the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers.

Rick Hutchinson, son of the Cincinnati Reds' manager, recently was named "Athlete of the Year" at Manatee High School in Brandenton, Fla.

Arnold Palmer To Play In National Open Despite Finger Injury

Leading Money Winner Hurt In Freak Accident

Rips Finger On Car Trunk; Doctor Says Star Is OK To Play

OAKMONT, Pa., (AP) — Arnold Palmer's hopes of winning the 62nd National Open Golf Championship received another setback Monday in the form of a freak accident which ripped open the third finger of his right hand, but the tournament favorite vowed, "I'll play."

Already harassed by a nagging cold, fatigue and a slump, the year's leading money winner saw his miseries multiplied Sunday night after returning home from the $100,000 Golf Classic at Clifton, N.J.

Transferring luggage from his private twin-engine plane to his automobile at the Latrobe, Pa., airport, he gashed his finger on the trunk of the car.

The severe cut went all the way to the bone and required six stitches. Monday the joint of the finger was swollen to nearly double its normal size.

"One doctor told me I shouldn't swing a club for 24 hours, but my family doctor said it would be okay," Palmer said, "so I decided to give it a try."

He reported to Oakmont, where the Open gets started Thursday, and, with the finger heavily bandaged and medicated, hit practice shots for three-quarters of an hour and then teed off on a tour of the course.

"It doesn't feel too bad now," Palmer said.

"I don't know how it will act up later, but I definitely intend to play."

Palmer is still sniffling from a cold which struck him three weeks ago and his game hasn't measured up to that which has earned him six tournament titles, including the Masters, and some $60,000 this year. He shot 290 in last weekend's Golf Classic at Upper Montclair, N.J., Country Club, 15 shots back of the winner, Gene Littler.

"I'm not worried about a slump now," Palmer said. "I feel fine. I'm hitting the ball okay again. I just don't want anything like this finger to pop up and bother me now."

Keyser Defeats Lonaconing, 2-1

Zihlman Is Victor Over Midland, 3-1

Jay Shaw's two-run doubl in the fourth inning gave Keyser a 2-1 decision over Lonaconing in a Twilight Baseball League game staged yesterday at Keyser.

Lonaconing scored its only run in the first inning when Dick Rawlings walked the bases full and uncorked a wild pitch but he settled down and blanked the visitors the remainder of the route.

Dale Ramsburg led off the fourth with a single, Joe Pezzanite walked and both runners advanced by Jim Chidester's sacrifice. Then Shaw doubled to right-center to send home the tying and winning runs.

Rawlings yielded only three hits and struck out five and issued five passes.

Ramsburg and Shaw shared four of the seven hits yielded by Jack Budries. Lonaconing's hits were singles by Johnson, Miller and Shockey.

Pat Folk outdueled Francis Allen and Paul "Bubbles" Thompson to give Zihlman a 3-1 victory over Midland at Zihlman.

Zihlman scored all its runs in the first two innings and knocked Allen out of the box. Thompson hurled shutout ball the last four frames.

Each team was limited to three hits. Bobby Deffenbaugh rapped a double and John Blank and Andy Felker had singles for Zihlman. Frank Buskirk, Kenny Johnson and Bobby Mundeno had base knocks for Midland.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Larry Wilson, a University of Miami football and baseball star, has signed a bonus contract with the Kansas City Athletics, General Manager Pat Friday announced Monday night.

Wilson, 21, a first baseman, was voted the most valuable player in the Florida Intercollegiate Baseball League this year. He batted .459 for the university, hit six home runs and drove in 22 runs.

Wilson was a regular end for three seasons on Miami's football team. Friday said Wilson turned down six offers to play professional football.

Wilson was assigned to the Athletics Class D farm club at Minot, N.D.

Clower Is Surprised By Coach-Of-Year Tag

"Biz" Dawson Retiring New Track In Trouble

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN Clement Clower was named NAIA Area 7 Coach-of-the-Year it came as "quite a surprise" to him, according to a letter we have received from the Salem College athletic director and baseball mentor.

"I guess it is one of those once in a lifetime situations," he says.

Coach Clower's Tigers won the West Virginia Conference baseball title for the first time since 1948 and ended the regular season with a 9-1 record, including a 3-1 decision over West Virginia University.

Salem played in the NAIA Area 7 tourney at Statesboro, Ga., and was eliminated by Carson-Newman of Tennessee.

The area in which Clower was named Coach-of-the-Year includes schools from Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Tennessee, North and South Carolina and West Virginia.

This was one of Salem's best years in athletics. The football team finished second in the W.V.C. and the football team took third place.

Salem, incidentally, holds the distinction of having two of its mentors selected as coaches-of-the-year. Don Christie, the basketball mentor, was bestowed that honor by the West Virginia Conference.

Clower hails from Petersburg where he was born April 1, 1920. He was graduated from Petersburg High School in 1937, served in the army from 1942 to 1945 and returned to Salem where he received his A.B. in 1947, majoring in physical education and social studies. In 1958 he received his M.S. in recreation from West Virginia University.

Clem was assistant coach in all sports at Petersburg High School before he went to Salem in 1955. He has coached basketball, football and baseball there. Ted Underwood is now grid mentor and Christie handles the basketball reins.

Clower was sports columnist for the Grant County Press at Petersburg and has been a Deacon in the Presbyterian Church there since 1945.

And last but not least, Clem was one of the best sports reporters in nearby West Virginia in the days he was coaching at Petersburg High School.

FROM Fairmont, W. Va., comes the news that Paul "Biz" Dawson is retiring from school work.

Dawson has been one of the state's most successful coaches and since quitting the coaching ranks after a 25-year stint he has served as principal for nine years in Fairmont junior high schools.

Under Dawson, West Fairmont High won three state basketball titles and two football championships.

"Biz" will be remembered by Cumberland "oldtimers" as one of the star outfielders of the Fairmont Black Diamonds in 1925, the first year of the Middle Atlantic League. His teammates that year included Art Cousins, Pete Monahan, "Chip" Helmick, Tony Cyran and Bert Grimm.

The Cumberland Colts of that year were Johnny Byrnes, Tommy Ray, "Dutch" Haber, Ted Musante, Harold Egbert, "Shovel" Hodge, Paul Secrist, Jimmy Duffy, "Swede" Forsburg, Harry McEnroe, Lawrence "Babe" Fisher, Eddie Conley, "Shine" Cortazzo, "Hank" Rangow, Neal Dougherty and Petey Gallupe.

Dawson, incidentally, was a three sports star at West Virginia University about 40 years ago.

THE Cumberland Fair Association is transferring its 12-day race meeting to another Maryland track for the third time in four years because of the lack of thoroughbreds but up at the new track known as Finger Lakes, or "The Thumb" at Canandaigua, N. Y., they are not only having a tough time getting horses but their daily mutuel handle has stockholders alarmed.

One day last week the attendance skidded to 1,135 and the mutuel pool was $87,997 for eight races.

The investment at Finger Lakes runs into the millions and many persons purchased stock in the new plant.

Homer By Payton Enables Snyder's To Edge P.E., 5-4

A three-run circuit belt by Gene Payton in the sixth inning enabled Snyder's Grocery to edge Potomac Edison in a Rec Softball League game yesterday at Naval Reserve Field by the score of 5-4.

The win gave Snyder's a 4-2 record while P.E. absorbed its sixth straight defeat.

Bill Kenney went the route for the Grocers, yielded four hits and struck out five. Burkett and Wilson shared the losers' four blows.

Braves Sign Arizona Soph For $100,000

Daniel Schneider, 19, Much Sought Pitcher

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Daniel Schneider, 19, Tucson, Ariz., one of the most sought-after young pitchers in the nation, was signed to a farm club contract Monday by the Milwaukee Braves for a bonus reportedly in the $100,000 bracket.

Schneider, a sophomore at the University of Arizona, was signed to a contract with Louisville in the American Association by scout John Moore.

Schneider, 6-foot-3, 190 pounds, won six games without a loss in his freshman year and had a 13-1 record in the past college season, posting his 13 victories in a row. Five of his 13 victories were shutouts and in one game he struck out 20 batters. He had 130 strikeouts for the season.

The Braves also signed an Orlando, Fla., high school pitching star for their Dublin, Ga., farm club in the Class D Georgia-Florida League.

The young right-hander, Gary Jenkins, 17, had an 8-2 record with 127 strikeouts in 60 innings of play for Edgewater High School. He is 6-feet-2 and weighs 175 pounds.

Giants Call Lemay, Perry Farmed Out

CINCINNATI, (AP) — The slumping San Francisco Giants recalled pitcher Dick Lemay from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast League and sent hurler Gaylord Perry down to replace him.

Lemay, a Cincinnatian, was with the Giants until about mid-May when he was sent to Tacoma. He is a left-hander.

Perry, a right-hander, who had a 16-10 record with Tacoma last year, has been with the Giants all season and has a 2-1 mark.

The Giants have been having their pitching troubles in their current slump which has seen them lose the National League lead and drop 2½ games behind the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers.

Rick Hutchinson, son of the Cincinnati Reds' manager, recently was named "Athlete of the Year" at Manatee High School in Brandenton, Fla.

Dick Stuart Hits Two Homers As Pirates Beat Chicago, 6-1

First Inning Blast Lost In Cubs' Bullpen

Ball Goes Under Tarpaulin; Gibbon Scores First Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Dick Stuart's two home runs—one a power blast clear out of the park and the other an inside-the-park lost ball—accounted for five runs and powered the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday.

Rain delayed the game 1 hour and 9 minutes in the bottom of the eighth inning.

Stuart's first inning homer with one on was a line drive down the third base line. The ball bounded into the Cub bullpen and was lost under a tarpaulin. Before left fielder Billy Williams could retrieve the ball, Stuart crossed home plate with his eighth homer.

Stuart's three-run shot in the sixth inning helped southpaw Joe Gibbon score his first victory against one loss.

Because of the rain delay, Gibbon did not return to the mound and Diomedes Olivo finished, retiring the last four men in order.

Starter Don Cardwell suffered his seventh defeat against two victories.

Dapper Phils Score Over Pirates, 13-10; Cardinals Win, 11-3

The Phillies, 1961 champions, and the Cardinals scored victories yesterday as the Dapper Dan Little League launched its 1962 campaign.

At Constitution Park, the Phillies came up with three runs in the ninth inning to turn back the Pirates, 13-10, while at Post Field, the Cardinals walloped the Yankees to the tune of 11-3.

Relief pitcher Tom McGeady won his own game for the Phillies when he smacked a two-run double in the top of the 9th to break a 10-10 deadlock. He scored the third run of the inning on Jimmy Daum's two-bagger. Tommy Lewis, third Pirates' pitcher, was the victim of the 9th inning bombardment.

The Phillies racked up 14 hits. Gary Perkins and Gary Knowlton had three each and Randy Natale and Tommy McGeady had two apiece. Knowlton and Natale each smacked a pair of two-baggers.

Oscar Lewis, Jimmie Stafford, Tommy Lewis and Alkire garnered two safeties each for the Pirates. Lewis pounded a triple and double and Godlove belted a home run in the 5th with one aboard.

Jim Ellsworth's Cardinals collected a total of 12 hits, including homers by Walter Davis and Ed Hollen. Davis and Perlozzo had three hits each, and Hollen and Dave Coffman each hit safely twice. Walter Orndorff and Perlozzo blasted triples and Davis, Perlozzo and Coffman hit two-baggers.

Dave Joy, Cardinals' hurler, tossed a 4-hitter and whiffed five. Rick Renotas, Doug Williams and Frank Snyder smashed three-baggers for the Yankees.

Foyt Apologizes For Remarks About Officials

Racer Threatened To Beat Promoter

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., winner of Sunday's 100-mile National Championship Big Car race, apologized Monday to the United States auto club for an outburst of angry remarks about officiating.

Foyt, national big car champion the past two years, also had gotten into a hassle with race promoter Tom Marchese and at one point threatened to "beat up" Marchese. The promoter also got an apology Monday.

Foyt, who was separated by four car lengths from second place finisher Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., and by two seconds from third place finisher Jim Hurtubise, Lennox, Calif., had complained about officiating in connection with caution lights. Foyt charged that challengers creeped up on him when the yellow caution lights were on for accidents and each driver was to slow down and hold his place.

Foyt, himself, had been booed by the crowd for moving up on Don Davis, Phoenix, Ariz., during one of the caution periods.

Foyt argued with Marchese about appearance money for competing in the race. Foyt said he thought he was entitled to appearance money because he was national champion. Marchese said only the previous Indianapolis 500 winner is entitled to appearance money if he qualified for the race.

GOLF NOVICE HAS ACE

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Mrs. James Clark, mother of eight, scored a hole in one three weeks after taking up golf.

She made her ace on the 135-yard No. 8 hole at the West Par course here. The ball dropped on the green, rolled about six inches and fell in.

"But please don't tell what I shot on the other holes," she told her golfing companions.

Mrs. Clark's children range from two years to 14.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Next comes the big one —the U.S. Open.

The Thunderbird Golf Classic with a $25,000 top prize and the Masters at $20,000 both offer more loot but even the pros who outwardly sneer at the Open as "just another golf tournament" would rather win the big one coming up at Oakmont, Pa., this week than any other event on the 51 week tour.

The Open title carries with it unsurpassed prestige and the money, now upped to $15,000 to the winner, isn't exactly peanuts.

Since 1895 when only 10 pros and one amateur played the first Open at Newport, R.I. as a one-day 36-hole affair, this championship has managed to hold its position as No. 1.

A 19-year-old British pro, Horace Rawlins, won the first Open and its $150 prize ... No one so young has won since.

Jack Nicklaus, then an amateur but now a pro, has the lowest scoring record of any simon-pure ever to compete in the Open—and that includes four-time winner Bobby Jones ... Nicklaus, in fact, has scored better overall than any player in the last two Opens, though he hasn't won it yet Stocky Jack was second with 282 in 1960, tied for fourth at 284 last year for 566 ... Jones' best score was 287 in 1930, the year he completed his grand slam (U.S. and British Opens and Amateurs).

Palmer Seeks Sweep

Arnold Palmer seeking a pro slam this year of the Masters, U. S. and British Opens and PGA, holds several Open records ... In 1960 he made the best comeback ever by an Open champion moving from eight shots off the pace at 36 holes (tying a record) and seven strokes back as the final round opened (a record)... Arnie also shot the lowest nine holes in Open history (30) on his final round in 1960 and the best final round (65) ever recorded by a winner.

Sam Snead has finished second four times but never won ... Jones also was runnerup four times but is one of three four-time winners, Ben Hogan and old, old timer Willie Anderson being the others.

Only three players have had undisputed leads after each round. .. Ben Hogan did it in 1953 Jim Barnes in 1921, Walter Hagen in 1914 ... Otherwise only 12 leaders at 18 holes went on to win in 61 Opens, only 18 pacesetters at 36 holes went on to win in the 58 opens at 72 holes, only 28 leaders at the end of three rounds survived to win in 58 tries.

Bad Start For Winner

Hogan started with 76 at Oakmont in 1951 and still won ... Cary Middlecoff had a 75 on his last round in 1949 and won ... Harry Vardon (1900) and Ted Ray (1920) are the only foreign winners ... Bobby Locke's 282 in 1948 is the lowest score by a foreigner.

Sam Parks upset winner at Oakmont with 299 in 1935, won only $1,000 for the effort ... Willie Anderson in 1901 finished 72 holes with 331 and won a title playoff with an 85 for the highest score ever by a winner ... Hogan holds the scoring record at 67-72-68-69—276 set in 1948.

Ray Ainsley had a record 19 on the par four 16th hole at Denver in 1938 ... Freddie McLeod weighed 108 pounds when he won in 1908 ... Ted Ray was the oldest winner at 43 in 1920. .. Lee Mackey's first round 64 in 1950 is the lowest ever ... Billy Burke beat George von Elm in a 72-hole playoff after tying at the end of the first 72 in 1931 ... He won by one shot.

But if there's a 72-hole tie this week, they'll play off at 18 holes Sunday, then go into "sudden death" immediately to determine a winner.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Welterweight contender Teddy Wright of New York, who is making a career out of the Moyer family of Portland, Ore., signed Monday for a return television fight with middleweight contender Denny Moyer at Madison Square Garden, July 7.

The Preston Country Club men's golf team won a three-team golf match Sunday at Kingwood, W. Va., by piling up 75½ points.

Ithaca Wins 5-1 In NCAA Tourney

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Tom Terranova and Ed Farquhar powered a sixth inning uprising which shattered a one-all tie and gave tiny Ithaca a 5-1 win over Missouri in the first round of the NCAA national baseball tournament.

Terranova's leadoff double and Farquhar's triple were the big blows in the four-hit inning which preserved Itaca's unbeaten record. Tourney favorite Santa Clara met Florida State in the climax of Monday's four game program.

Sophomore Ron Tate lofted a two run, ninth inning homer to boost Michigan to a 3-1 victory over Texas and Bob Arena singled home the winning run as Holy Cross nipped Colorado State 4-3 during the matinee doubleheader.

Former American League pitcher Stubby Overmire is managing Jamestown, N. Y., in the Class D New York-Pennsylvania League.

The U.S. Open at Oakmont, near Pittsburgh, this week, is the fourth on that tough course. First was won by Tommy Armour, a Scot in 1927. Sam Parks won in 1935 and Ben Hogan took it in 1953.

Dean Look, former Michigan State football and baseball star, has ended his baseball career. He was a $50,000 bonus boy with the White Sox and was with Savannah when he called it quits.

Dick Stuart Hits Two Homers As Pirates Beat Chicago, 6-1

Ball Goes Under Tarpaulin; Gibbon Scores First Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Dick Stuart's two home runs—one a power blast clear out of the park and the other an inside-the-park lost ball—accounted for five runs and powered the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday.

Rain delayed the game 1 hour and 9 minutes in the bottom of the eighth inning.

Stuart's first inning homer with one on was a line drive down the third base line. The ball bounded into the Cub bullpen and was lost under a tarpaulin. Before left fielder Billy Williams could retrieve the ball, Stuart crossed home plate with his eighth homer.

Stuart's three-run shot in the sixth inning helped southpaw Joe Gibbon score his first victory against one loss.

Because of the rain delay, Gibbon did not return to the mound and Diomedes Olivo finished, retiring the last four men in order.

Starter Don Cardwell suffered his seventh defeat against two victories.

Dapper Phils Score Over Pirates, 13-10; Cardinals Win, 11-3

The Phillies, 1961 champions, and the Cardinals scored victories yesterday as the Dapper Dan Little League launched its 1962 campaign.

At Constitution Park, the Phillies came up with three runs in the ninth inning to turn back the Pirates, 13-10, while at Post Field, the Cardinals walloped the Yankees to the tune of 11-3.

Relief pitcher Tom McGeady won his own game for the Phillies when he smacked a two-run double in the top of the 9th to break a 10-10 deadlock. He scored the third run of the inning on Jimmy Daum's two-bagger. Tommy Lewis, third Pirates' pitcher, was the victim of the 9th inning bombardment.

The Phillies racked up 14 hits. Gary Perkins and Gary Knowlton had three each and Randy Natale and Tommy McGeady had two apiece. Knowlton and Natale each smacked a pair of two-baggers.

Oscar Lewis, Jimmie Stafford, Tommy Lewis and Alkire garnered two safeties each for the Pirates. Lewis pounded a triple and double and Godlove belted a home run in the 5th with one aboard.

Jim Ellsworth's Cardinals collected a total of 12 hits, including homers by Walter Davis and Ed Hollen. Davis and Perlozzo had three hits each, and Hollen and Dave Coffman each hit safely twice. Walter Orndorff and Perlozzo blasted triples and Davis, Perlozzo and Coffman hit two-baggers.

Dave Joy, Cardinals' hurler, tossed a 4-hitter and whiffed five. Rick Renotas, Doug Williams and Frank Snyder smashed three-baggers for the Yankees.

FINDERS KEEPERS — Chicago Cubs' left fielder Billy Williams grabs ball in his left hand after a long search under the Cubs' bullpen bench for ball hit by Dick Stuart of the Pittsburgh Pirates. During the time of the search Stuart managed to circle the bases for an inside-the-park homer in first inning of yesterday's game in Chicago. Third base umpire Al Forman runs in at left to check search as Cub bull-penners watch. Bill Virdon was on base when Stuart hit the homer. Dick hit another homer out of the park later in the game. Foyt Apologizes For Remarks About Officials

Racer Threatened To Beat Promoter

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., winner of Sunday's 100-mile National Championship Big Car race, apologized Monday to the United States auto club for an outburst of angry remarks about officiating.

Foyt, national big car champion the past two years, also had gotten into a hassle with race promoter Tom Marchese and at one point threatened to "beat up" Marchese. The promoter also got an apology Monday.

Foyt, who was separated by four car lengths from second place finisher Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., and by two seconds from third place finisher Jim Hurtubise, Lennox, Calif., had complained about officiating in connection with caution lights. Foyt charged that challengers creeped up on him when the yellow caution lights were on for accidents and each driver was to slow down and hold his place.

Foyt, himself, had been booed by the crowd for moving up on Don Davis, Phoenix, Ariz., during one of the caution periods.

Foyt argued with Marchese about appearance money for competing in the race. Foyt said he thought he was entitled to appearance money because he was national champion. Marchese said only the previous Indianapolis 500 winner is entitled to appearance money if he qualified for the race.

GOLF NOVICE HAS ACE

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Mrs. James Clark, mother of eight, scored a hole in one three weeks after taking up golf.

She made her ace on the 135-yard No. 8 hole at the West Par course here. The ball dropped on the green, rolled about six inches and fell in.

"But please don't tell what I shot on the other holes," she told her golfing companions.

Mrs. Clark's children range from two years to 14.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Next comes the big one —the U.S. Open.

The Thunderbird Golf Classic with a $25,000 top prize and the Masters at $20,000 both offer more loot but even the pros who outwardly sneer at the Open as "just another golf tournament" would rather win the big one coming up at Oakmont, Pa., this week than any other event on the 51 week tour.

The Open title carries with it unsurpassed prestige and the money, now upped to $15,000 to the winner, isn't exactly peanuts.

Since 1895 when only 10 pros and one amateur played the first Open at Newport, R.I. as a one-day 36-hole affair, this championship has managed to hold its position as No. 1.

A 19-year-old British pro, Horace Rawlins, won the first Open and its $150 prize ... No one so young has won since.

Jack Nicklaus, then an amateur but now a pro, has the lowest scoring record of any simon-pure ever to compete in the Open—and that includes four-time winner Bobby Jones ... Nicklaus, in fact, has scored better overall than any player in the last two Opens, though he hasn't won it yet Stocky Jack was second with 282 in 1960, tied for fourth at 284 last year for 566 ... Jones' best score was 287 in 1930, the year he completed his grand slam (U.S. and British Opens and Amateurs).

Palmer Seeks Sweep

Arnold Palmer seeking a pro slam this year of the Masters, U. S. and British Opens and PGA, holds several Open records ... In 1960 he made the best comeback ever by an Open champion moving from eight shots off the pace at 36 holes (tying a record) and seven strokes back as the final round opened (a record)... Arnie also shot the lowest nine holes in Open history (30) on his final round in 1960 and the best final round (65) ever recorded by a winner.

Sam Snead has finished second four times but never won ... Jones also was runnerup four times but is one of three four-time winners, Ben Hogan and old, old timer Willie Anderson being the others.

Only three players have had undisputed leads after each round. . . Ben Hogan did it in 1953 Jim Barnes in 1921, Walter Hagen in 1914 ... Otherwise only 12 leaders at 18 holes went on to win in 61 Opens, only 18 pacesetters at 36 holes went on to win in the 58 opens at 72 holes, only 28 leaders at the end of three rounds survived to win in 58 tries.

Bad Start For Winner

Hogan started with 76 at Oakmont in 1951 and still won ... Cary Middlecoff had a 75 on his last round in 1949 and won ... Harry Vardon (1900) and Ted Ray (1920) are the only foreign winners ... Bobby Locke's 282 in 1948 is the lowest score by a foreigner.

Sam Parks upset winner at Oakmont with 299 in 1935, won only $1,000 for the effort ... Willie Anderson in 1901 finished 72 holes with 331 and won a title playoff with an 85 for the highest score ever by a winner ... Hogan holds the scoring record at 67-72-68-69—276 set in 1948.

Ray Ainsley had a record 19 on the par four 16th hole at Denver in 1938 ... Freddie McLeod weighed 108 pounds when he won in 1908 ... Ted Ray was the oldest winner at 43 in 1920. . . Lee Mackey's first round 64 in 1950 is the lowest ever ... Billy Burke beat George von Elm in a 72-hole playoff after tying at the end of the first 72 in 1931 ... He won by one shot.

But if there's a 72-hole tie this week, they'll play off at 18 holes Sunday, then go into "sudden death" immediately to determine a winner.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Outfielder Gene Woodling of the Washington Senators went through four consecutive games withouting accepting a single fielding chance while with the Baltimore Orioles.

Wright And Moyer Get Return Bout

NEW YORK (UPI) — Welterweight contender Teddy Wright of New York, who is making a career out of the Moyer family of Portland, Ore., signed Monday for a return television fight with middleweight contender Denny Moyer at Madison Square Garden, July 7.

Announcing the fight, matchmaker Teddy Brenner denied that he had to give Wright an "overly large guarantee" for the July bout. He added that neither Wright nor Denny could scale more than 161 pounds for the bout.

Maplehurst Is Third In Three-Team Match

The Preston Country Club men's golf team won a three-team golf match Sunday at Kingwood, W. Va., by piling up 75½ points.

Morgantown Country Club was second with 57 points and Maplehurst Country Club, Frostburg, was third with 56½ points.

Ithaca Wins 5-1 In NCAA Tourney

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Tom Terranova and Ed Farquhar powered a sixth inning uprising which shattered a one-all tie and gave tiny Ithaca a 5-1 win over Missouri in the first round of the NCAA national baseball tournament.

Terranova's leadoff double and Farquhar's triple were the big blows in the four-hit inning which preserved Itaca's unbeaten record. Tourney favorite Santa Clara met Florida State in the climax of Monday's four game program.

Sophomore Ron Tate lofted a two run, ninth inning homer to boost Michigan to a 3-1 victory over Texas and Bob Arena singled home the winning run as Holy Cross nipped Colorado State 4-3 during the matinee doubleheader.

Former American League pitcher Stubby Overmire is managing Jamestown, N. Y., in the Class D New York-Pennsylvania League.

The U.S. Open at Oakmont, near Pittsburgh, this week, is the fourth on that tough course. First was won by Tommy Armour, a Scot in 1927. Sam Parks won in 1935 and Ben Hogan took it in 1953.

Dean Look, former Michigan State football and baseball star, has ended his baseball career. He was a $50,000 bonus boy with the White Sox and was with Savannah when he called it quits.

Free-For-All Marks Baltimore's 5-3 Triumph Over Yankees

Daley Pitch Hits Powell In The Head

Roberts Posts Win, N.Y. Loses AL Lead, Gentile Hits 16th

NEW YORK (AP) — Robin Roberts won his first game in more than a year Monday night as Baltimore defeated New York 5-3, dropping the Yankees to second place in a game interrupted by a free-for-all touched off by a pitch that hit Orioles' outfielder John Powell in the head.

Powell went down in the fourth inning, struck by a Bud Daley fast ball that hit the 20-year-old rookie on his protective helmet and bounced all the way to the third base dugout. Powell fell to the ground, but did not lose consciousness.

Powell Carried Off

Ice packs were applied while attendants brought a stretcher out. Powell was carried off, placed in an ambulance and taken to a hospital for precautionary X rays and observation.

President Lee MacPhail of the Orioles said Powell was examined by Yankee physician Dr. Sidney Gaynor.

"Dr. Gaynor thinks he should be able to rejoin the club tomorrow night," said MacPhail. "However, he will be examined by a neurologist tomorrow. He never lost consciousness."

MacPhail said when Dr. Gaynor examined Powell, the following conversation took place:

Dr. Gaynor: "What hit you?"

Powell: "A fast ball."

Dr. Gaynor: "What did you do the last time up?"

Powell: "I got hit in the head."

Dr. Gaynor: "No, I mean the time before that."

Powell, laughing: "I struck out on a wide curve."

Maris Is Restrained

When the Yankees came to bat in their half of the inning, Roberts tossed a pitch that sailed over the head of Roger Maris. Maris, carrying the bat in his hand, started out to the mound toward the veteran right-hander, but catcher Hobie Landrith stepped in and shoved Maris away as players from both benches raced onto the field.

Yankee Manager Ralph Houk and Baltimore field boss Billy Hitchcock then began a heated argument that ended with Houk trying to swing at Hitchcock and having to be restrained by Umpire Charley Berry. At the same time, Maris and Baltimore coach George Staller appeared to be tangling, but this was not noticed by the umpires.

Managers Are Ejected

Special police hustled onto the field to end the disturbance. Hitchcock, slow to leave the field, had to be escorted to the dugout by a police lieutenant. Both managers were ejected.

Baltimore coach Cal Ermer was thrown out the next inning. He argued over Berry's call when Dick Williams bunted, was hit by his own bouncing ball and automatically called out.

Cut by the Yankees earlier in the season, the 35-year-old Roberts allowed seven hits and three runs in 7 1-3 innings before Steve Barber and Hoyt Wilhelm came on to finish up.

It was the first American League triumph of Roberts' career and the first since he last won for Philadelphia in the National League June 8, 1961. It also knocked the Yankees out of first place, pushing them a half game behind idle Minnesota.

Gentile Leads Attack

Jim Gentile was the big hitter for the Orioles, driving in three runs with a first inning single and a two-run homer in the fifth. The homer was his 16th' putting him into the league lead. Yogi Berra homered for the Yankees in the fourth.

Roberts, touched for two runs in the sixth that pulled the Yankees to within 5-3, left in the eighth after he retired the first batter. He appeared to be tiring. Barber preserved the victory, Roberts' first against two losses. The loser was Daley, now 2-1.

Teleprompter Bids For TV Fight Rights

Offer Is Record For Heavy Scrap

NEW YORK (UPI) —A record bid of $1,700,000 was made Monday night by the Teleprompter Corporation for ancillary rights to the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship fight at Comiskey Park, Chicago, Sept. 25.

It was the largest of three bids submitted Monday night for the ancillary rights for television, radio, movies, etc. It was also more than twice the successful $800,000 bid by Teleprompter for the third Patterson - Ingemar Johansson title fight at Miami Beach, March 13, 1961, the previous record. The new record sum is against 77½ per cent of the ancillary rights.

The second highest bid was made by Martin W. Smith, representing a Hollywood, Calif., syndicate: Graff, Reiner and Smith Enterprises for a minimum $1,200,000 guarantee against 85 per cent of the ancillary rights.

A third bid made by an independent agent, Oliver A. Unger of New York, was for a minimum of one million dollars for only the closed circuit television rights to the fight.

Richard Heacox Records Ace On Maplehurst 7th

Richard Heacox, of LaVale, scored a hole-in-one on the 164-yard No. 7 hole Sunday afternoon at the Maplehurst Country Club course.

Heacox was playing in a threesome with Al Tosh and Jack Tosh.

He used a No. 4 iron to record the first hole-in-one made at Maplehurst since 1960.

Barnes Is Signed By Giants Of NFL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Erich Barnes, the New York Giants' all-league defensive back, returned his signed contract Monday for the 1962 National Football League season.

Barnes, who will be starting his fifth season in the NFL, intercepted 7 passes last season and ran back 2 of them for touchdowns. One of these was a record-tying 102-yard run against the Dallas Cowboys.

The 27-year-old, 198-pound former Purdue back, who came to the Giants in a trade with the Chicago Bears last year, now is teaching school in Chicago.

Eddie Arcaro rode in eight straight runnings of the Preakness —1946 through 1953. He won three races during that period and was in the money the other times. He retired with six Preakness winners.

Palmer Still Sets Pace With $60,331

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Gene Littler climbed right up on Arnold Palmer's heels in the 1962 professional golf money winning derby Monday on the strength of his $25,000 victory Sunday in the Thunderbird Open golf tournament mained on top with $60,331.66 in stands in the position where he can pass the Masters champion

Billy Casper dropped from second to third in this week's standings with $42,158.44 as Littler moved up. Jack Nicklaus was fourth with $28,198.95 and Gary Player fifth at $22,688.34.

Following the top five came Phil Rodgers with $22,300.79, Bobby Nichols with $20,975.51, Dow Finsterwald with $20,296.58, Doug Sanders with $19,421.95, and Bruce Crampton with $17,273.51.

Palmer has won six of the 16 tournaments in which he has competed; Littler has won only two of 16 and Casper three of 15.

Lyon And Lund Share ACC Honors

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Tommy Lyon of Clemson and Jack Lund of Maryland took the pitching honors in the Atlantic Coast Conference this baseball season.

Lyon pitched seven of Clemson's 17 victories and was beaten only once. He edged out Pat McDowell of Wake Forest, who finished up with a 6-1 record.

Lund, a sophomore, had only a 2-3 record but he had the ACC's best earned run average, 1.68, and in 48 innings he gave up only six bases on balls, according to ACC Service Bureau Statistics.

FOURTH TIME AROUND—For the fourth time since 1927, the U. S. Open Golf championship will be played at the Oakmont Country Club, northeast of Pittsburgh, a tough 6,900-yard course loaded with trouble, sand and big greens. Tommy Armour won the first of the Oakmont Opens, in 1927, in a playoff with Harry Cooper after each had tied with scores of 301, 13 over par. In 1935 Sam Parks Jr., professional at a nearby course, surprised by winning, with a score of 299. Then, in 1953, Ben Hogan grabbed the laurels and his fourth U. S. Open crown by turning in a 283. Wittenborn, an offensive guard, will be starting his fifth year in the National Football League and his third with the Eagles. He played two seasons with San Francisco.

Stirling Moss Hopes To Return To Racing

LONDON (AP) — Stirling Moss, badly injured in a crash last April said Monday he hopes to be back in a racing car cockpit in six to eight weeks.

"It'll take me time to get back to my old form, but I reckon I should be lapping Goodwood at 1:34.2 within a half hour of getting into my car," Moss said hopefully.

It was on the Goodwood circuit April 23 that the British ace crashed at more than 100 miles per hour and sustained serious head and limb injuries.

Moss, speaking to reporters from a wheelchair at a hospital in suburban Wimbledon, said he expects to leave the hospital in two weeks.

Free-For-All Marks Baltimore's 5-3 Triumph Over Yankees

Daley Pitch Hits Powell In The Head

Roberts Posts Win, N.Y. Loses AL Lead, Gentile Hits 16th

NEW YORK (AP) — Robin Roberts won his first game in more than a year Monday night as Baltimore defeated New York 5-3, dropping the Yankees to second place in a game interrupted by a free-for-all touched off by a pitch that hit Orioles' outfielder John Powell in the head.

Powell went down in the fourth inning, struck by a Bud Daley fast ball that hit the 20-year-old rookie on his protective helmet and bounced all the way to the third base dugout. Powell fell to the ground, but did not lose consciousness.

Powell Carried Off

Ice packs were applied while attendants brought a stretcher out. Powell was carried off, placed in an ambulance and taken to a hospital for precautionary X rays and observation.

President Lee MacPhail of the Orioles said Powell was examined by Yankee physician Dr. Sidney Gaynor.

"Dr. Gaynor thinks he should be able to rejoin the club tomorrow night," said MacPhail. "However, he will be examined by a neurologist tomorrow. He never lost consciousness."

MacPhail said when Dr. Gaynor examined Powell, the following conversation took place:

Dr. Gaynor: "What hit you?"

Powell: "A fast ball."

Dr. Gaynor: "What did you do the last time up?"

Powell: "I got hit in the head."

Dr. Gaynor: "No, I mean the time before that."

Powell, laughing: "I struck out on a wide curve."

Maris Is Restrained

When the Yankees came to bat in their half of the inning, Roberts tossed a pitch that sailed over the head of Roger Maris. Maris, carrying the bat in his hand, started out to the mound toward the veteran right-hander, but catcher Hobie Landrith stepped in and shoved Maris away as players from both benches raced onto the field.

Yankee Manager Ralph Houk and Baltimore field boss Billy Hitchcock then began a heated argument that ended with Houk trying to swing at Hitchcock and having to be restrained by Umpire Charley Berry. At the same time, Maris and Baltimore coach George Staller appeared to be tangling, but this was not noticed by the umpires.

Managers Are Ejected

Special police hustled onto the field to end the disturbance. Hitchcock, slow to leave the field, had to be escorted to the dugout by a police lieutenant. Both managers were ejected.

Baltimore coach Cal Ermer was thrown out the next inning. He argued over Berry's call when Dick Williams bunted, was hit by his own bouncing ball and automatically called out.

Cut by the Yankees earlier in the season, the 35-year-old Roberts allowed seven hits and three runs in 7 1-3 innings before Steve Barber and Hoyt Wilhelm came on to finish up.

It was the first American League triumph of Roberts' career and the first since he last won for Philadelphia in the National League June 8, 1961. It also knocked the Yankees out of first place, pushing them a half game behind idle Minnesota.

Gentile Leads Attack

Jim Gentile was the big hitter for the Orioles, driving in three runs with a first inning single and a two-run homer in the fifth. The homer was his 16th' putting him into the league lead. Yogi Berra homered for the Yankees in the fourth.

Roberts, touched for two runs in the sixth that pulled the Yankees to within 5-3, left in the eighth after he retired the first batter. He appeared to be tiring. Barber preserved the victory, Roberts' first against two losses. The loser was Daley, now 2-1.

NEW YORK (UPI) —A record bid of $1,700,000 was made Monday night by the Teleprompter Corporation for ancillary rights to the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship fight at Comiskey Park, Chicago, Sept. 25.

The new record sum is against 77½ per cent of the ancillary rights.

The second highest bid was made by Martin W. Smith, representing a Hollywood, Calif., syndicate: Graff, Reiner and Smith Enterprises for a minimum $1,200,000 guarantee against 85 per cent of the ancillary rights.

A third bid made by an independent agent, Oliver A. Unger of New York, was for a minimum of one million dollars for only the closed circuit television rights to the fight.

Eagles Sign Pair

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Linemen Gene Gossage and John Wittenborn have signed their 1962 contracts with the Philadelphia Eagles, it was announced Monday by general manager Vince McNally.

Wittenborn, an offensive guard, will be starting his fifth year in the National Football League and his third with the Eagles. He played two seasons with San Francisco.

Gossage, who alternated on both the offensive and defensive units, returns for his third season with the Eagles. Coach Nick Skorich said he would play defensive right end next fall, replacing Marion Campbell who retired.

Stirling Moss Hopes To Return To Racing

LONDON (AP) — Stirling Moss, badly injured in a crash last April said Monday he hopes to be back in a racing car cockpit in six to eight weeks.

"It'll take me time to get back to my old form, but I reckon I should be lapping Goodwood at 1:34.2 within a half hour of getting into my car," Moss said hopefully.

It was on the Goodwood circuit April 23 that the British ace crashed at more than 100 miles per hour and sustained serious head and limb injuries.

Moss, speaking to reporters from a wheelchair at a hospital in suburban Wimbledon, said he expects to leave the hospital in two weeks.

Mt. Savage Scores 4th Win In Row

Frostburg Mounties, Westernport Victors

Mt. Savage registered its fourth straight victory in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League by defeating Corriganville yesterday at Mt. Savage by the score of 10-2.

The league's only unbeaten team collected 11 hits and the attack was paced by Ray Blank who slammed a triple, double and single. Bobby Robertson clouted a home run.

Colin Kennell went the route for Mt. Savage and three of the eight hits he gave up were credited to Jim Sweitzer.

Westernport moved into the .500 class with a 2-2 record by nosing out Frostburg's Little Moes at Westernport by the score of 8-7.

Each team used four pitchers in the game and Gerald Miller emerged the winner over Sigler. Miller, the fourth Westernport hurler, struck out four of the seven batters he faced after taking over in the sixth inning.

Pat Ryan collected three singles, Dave Imperio rapped a double and single and Sandy Thomas also had two hits for Westernport. Jerry Groves headed the Little Moes' 9-hit attack with three safeties, Mike Pantuso collected two bingles and Dick Delaney belted a three-run homer.

Frostburg's Mounties eked out a 4-3 decision over the LaVale Pirates for the second win in three outings.

Bobby Seibert, the last of three hurlers used by the Mounties, received credit for the win.

Neil Keister, Ronnie Ware and Seibert garnered two each for the Mounties and one of Keister's blows was a round-tripper. Gary Orendorf had two hits for LaVale. Dave Pittman was tagged with the loss.

The Cresaptown - LaVale Cubs game was postponed on account of rain.

Market Suffers Another Decline In Light Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market suffered a fairly sharp new decline Monday, but trading was light and failed to gather momentum as prices fell.

Except for a brief flurry an hour before the close, buying was almost entirely absent despite President Kennedy's call in a Yale University commencement address for peace between business and his administration.

As the market opened there had been widespread disagreement as to whether a test of the lows established in the big market plunge two weeks ago had been completed. Some technicians took the slide Monday to mean that the test was still going on and that further drops could lie ahead.

The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index closed at 57.82 for a loss of 0.63 equivalent to nearly $3.3 billion in paper values.

In the Dow - Jones averages industrials slumped 6.44, rails 0.87 utilities 1.15 and the 65 stock composite 2.03, or nearly 1 per cent.

Volume increased slightly to 2,870,000 shares from 2,560,000 last Friday which was the slowest day since May 21.

The market broadened out some with 1,264 issues traded—34 more than Friday and 29 more than last Monday. A total of 305 issues advanced, five hitting new highs, and 766 declined, 30 to new lows.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grain futures staged a strong rally in an acti vefinal half-hour of trading Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed unchanged to up 1⅝, corn up ⅝ to 1½, oats up ⅞ to 1⅜, rye up ¼ to 2⅜ and soybeans unchanged to off ⅜.

Most grains declined in early dealings as scattered hedge sales in wheat and long liquidation in corn and oats found limited demand. All corn deliveries sagged to new seasonal lows before buying picked up near the finish.

Wheat futures firmed after the opening as scattered local buying found limited hedge sales. Bad weather held up harvesting in the southwest. Selling later increased, particularly in the distant May contract.

Favorable weather and crop news caused early selling of other grains. Dealers also reported evening up prior to a government crop estimate due after the close.

Corn prices dropped sharply under heavy early sales which concentrated mainly on July and September.

Oats declined with corn in early light trading. A lack of pressure was a factor in the late.

Rye futures were also quiet, but prices moved upward around noon.

Soybeans ruled easier after early selling subsided. Commission houses bought on the decline. Oil futures also eased, while meals were mixed.

Export markets were slow due to a holiday over much of Europe. Japan reportedly bought about 150,000 bushels of soybeans for July shipment.

Outside markets were mixed

Market Suffers Another Decline In Light Trading

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market suffered a fairly sharp new decline Monday, but trading was light and failed to gather momentum as prices fell.

Except for a brief flurry an hour before the close, buying was almost entirely absent despite President Kennedy's call in a Yale University commencement address for peace between business and his administration.

As the market opened there had been widespread disagreement as to whether a test of the lows established in the big market plunge two weeks ago had been completed. Some technicians took the slide Monday to mean that the test was still going on and that further drops could lie ahead.

The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index closed at 57.82 for a loss of 0.63 equivalent to nearly $3.3 billion in paper values.

In the Dow - Jones averages industrials slumped 6.44, rails 0.87 utilities 1.15 and the 65 stock composite 2.03, or nearly 1 per cent.

Volume increased slightly to 2,870,000 shares from 2,560,000 last Friday which was the slowest day since May 21.

The market broadened out some with 1,264 issues traded—34 more than Friday and 29 more than last Monday. A total of 305 issues advanced, five hitting new highs, and 766 declined, 30 to new lows.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Grain futures staged a strong rally in an acti vefinal half-hour of trading Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed unchanged to up 1⅝, corn up ⅝ to 1½, oats up ⅞ to 1⅜, rye up ¼ to 2⅜ and soybeans unchanged to off ⅜.

Most grains declined in early dealings as scattered hedge sales in wheat and long liquidation in corn and oats found limited demand. All corn deliveries sagged to new seasonal lows before buying picked up near the finish.

Wheat futures firmed after the opening as scattered local buying found limited hedge sales. Bad weather held up harvesting in the southwest. Selling later increased, particularly in the distant May contract.

Favorable weather and crop news caused early selling of other grains. Dealers also reported evening up prior to a government crop estimate due after the close.

Corn prices dropped sharply under heavy early sales which concentrated mainly on July and September.

Oats declined with corn in early light trading. A lack of pressure was a factor in the late.

Rye futures were also quiet, but prices moved upward around noon.

Soybeans ruled easier after early selling subsided. Commission houses bought on the decline. Oil futures also eased, while meals were mixed.

Export markets were slow due to a holiday over much of Europe. Japan reportedly bought about 150,000 bushels of soybeans for July shipment.

Outside markets were mixed

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, Samuel Wilson, who died 2 years ago, June 12, 1960.

Those whom we love go out of sight
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind.
Beautiful memories he left behind.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our husband and father, Samuel Wilson, who died 2 years ago, June 12, 1960.

Those whom we love go out of sight
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind.
Beautiful memories he left behind.
Wife and Family.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do you judge everyone by yourself? Just because YOU don't want people to drop in to visit why assume everyone shares your point of view?

We live close to Seattle. When we heard of plans for the Fair we were thrilled. It meant we would have company. In former years we battled the heat and long distance to spend time with old friends. This year we plan to stay at home and wait for people to come to US.

We have sent invitations to everyone and anyone we feel might be able to make the trip. We may not have a room for one and all but we will surely have a bed and plenty to eat.

Please print our names in the paper in case we missed somebody. We love company and would love to have scads of visitors this summer. — — — —

DEAR BIG HEARTED FOLKS: I wouldn't dream of printing even your initials. Do you know that approximately 35 million people read this column every day?

Let's set the record straight. I am not opposed to ALL company. I object only to the uninvited variety.

You sent invitations to everyone you could think of? Well, these people, then, are invited guests. And there's a world of difference between an invited guest and a passing pedestrian who knows how to ring a doorbell.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was happy to see you deal with a subject which has been considered taboo. I refer to the mother who shared a bedroom with her 15-year-old son.

We have a similar problem in our family. I've never discussed this with anyone because I'm ashamed to admit that my husband and I have not shared a bedroom for the past six years.

Our 15-year-old son insists on sleeping with his father. They have a large bedroom with twin beds.

My husband is fed up with this arrangement and feels that the boy should have his own room and that he and I should have our bedroom back. Whenever he brings up the subject the boy becomes upset and says he wants things left as they are. What can we do about this?—OHIO MOTHER

DEAR OHIO: You and your husband can get into the driver's seat where you belong. TELL the boy he's going to have his own room tomorrow. Then see that he has it.

Married people are supposed to sleep with each other and not with their children.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I enjoy your column immensely but you have an annoying habit we wish you'd drop.

Why must you call people "Buster," "Bub," "Buttercup" and "Toots?" Recently you called a woman "Lamb Chop."

We like your advice but these flip little names you attach to readers are a bit much. Since many of your readers are older than you we respectfully suggest that you modify your language. It would make the column far more dignified.—JUST FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: Thank you for the criticism. The next letter is from a reader who also has another opinion on the subject.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a clergyman who likes your column because you are wise but not all-knowing. You are a moralist but not self-righteous. You are forthright but never crude.

Most of all I like your manner of expression. Who but Ann Landers could quote the scriptures in one paragraph and sign off with, "Watch it, Petunia, you've got a one-track mind and the traffic is light."

Don't ever change.—AVID WISCONSIN READER

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lake Gordon is 4½ inches below the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon one-quarter inch above, a report by Ray Nixon, water plant foreman, to the Mayor and Council showed yesterday. Consumption for the week ending Sunday was $78,320,000 gallons compared to 101,470,000 the same period a year ago.

AGANA, Guam (UPI) — Four Japanese destroyers will visit Apra Harbor Wednesday in the first stop of a 10-week training cruise, it was announced Monday. The ships later go to Australia and New Zealand.

South End Fair Opens

The annual Fun Fair, sponsored by the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association, opened last night on the Penn Avenue Field.

Frankie's Amusements, Washington, will furnish rides and all booths will be owned and operated by the South Cumberland group.

Robert Keech, general chairman, said this will be the first year the fair has been operated under this arrangement. In the past a commercial carnival operated the booths.

Proceeds from the affair are used for improvements in the South End area, to help defray expenses of the annual Hallowe'en parade sponsored by the association and for lighting during the Christmas season, G. Glenn Watson, president, stated.

A feature of the fair this year will be a booth for homemade baked goods. Those desiring to donate may contact Mrs. Fannon Webrick, 722-6956 and Mrs. Gladys Fuller, 722-7878 or bring their goods to the ground.

Searchlights will light up the midway and will be shown all around the area.

The glad hand committee will include Thomas B. Finan, attorney general of Maryland; Mayor J. Edwin Keech; Commissioners Ray Light, Philip Fleming, John J. Long and Mrs. Lucile Roeder; County Commissioners John J. Rowan, John T. Mason, and Louis V. Shinnamon; Sheriff Paul Haberlein; State Attorney James Getty and his assistant, Donald Mason; William Walsh, Thomas F. Conlon Jr., J. Goodloe Jackson, William L. Wilson, William A. Wilson, James Stafford, Noel S. Cook, Arch Hutcheson and Marcus Naughton.

Tickets for rides at a reduced rate can be still obtained from any member of the association, Keech stated.

Rec Workers Are Approved

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved appointments to positions for the summer Recreation Department program.

Named as arts and crafts supervisor is Mrs. Marian Wilson.

Playground directors listed are Ronna Grim, Patricia King, Donald Helker, Fleurette Barger, Barbara Miller, John Turley, Harry Miller, Bonnie Ullery, Sylvia Huff, Gelia Puffenberger, Judith Grim, Mary Footen, Vera Twigg, and Mrs. Jean Beckward.

Assistant playground leaders will be Frances Taylor and Charles Van Horn. Substitute playground director appointed is Mary Louis Berry while Patrick Kenney will be senior ballfield leader.

On another matter, council confirmed Raymond R. Valentine Jr., as a regular member of the Police Department.

Council also changed the hourly rate paid to Elwood V. Seeders and Basil J. Williams, laborers at Municipal Airport, to conform with others in the same classification.

Local Youths Fined In Court

Two local youths were fined $100 each yesterday in Juvenile Court after being convicted of being delinquent minors.

Magistrate Louis Fatkin fined the youths, $100 each after convicting them in a series of thefts.

The youths were charged as delinquent minors, however they were tried as adults since they both turned 18 years of age before the case came to court.

Capt. Det. James E. Van and Det. Harry Iser charged the youths in connection with a series of thefts between last November and this March.

In addition to the fine they were ordered to make restitution to the victims or face an additional 30-day jail term. Magistrate Fatkin also noted they face a 60-day jail sentence if the fines are not paid.

Summer Term Is Opened At Potomac State

KEYSER — Classes began this morning for the first semester at Potomac State College where a total of 131 students registered yesterday for the summer term.

Dean K. S. McKee said there will undoubtedly be several others who register late because of late graduation exercises elsewhere but he reminded all planning to attend the summer session to register as soon as possible.

Many of those attending classes the first semester are staying in the campus dormitories.

Registration for the second term will be held July 22.

Mass Wednesday For Former Area Pastor

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward P. McAdams, 84, who served for four years as pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, in the early 1900s, died Sunday in Providence Hospital, Washington.

He is the only man in the Washington Archdiocese to have served in the priesthood for more than 60 years.

Msgr. McAdams served since 1924 as pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Washington. For nine years in that time, the Very Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, here, was his assistant at St. Joseph's Church.

A man who called himself "the last of the saddle priests," Msgr. McAdams had served more than 450 square miles of Maryland on horseback during the early 1900's.

A Solemn Pontical Requiem Mass will be offered at St. Joseph's Church Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. and burial will be in Cathedral Cemetery in Baltimore.

He was a native of Baltimore and a graduate of Loyola College in 1898. He was ordained by James Cardinal Gibbons in 1901.

Smith, his wife, Faye, and daughter, Sherri Lynn, reside at Athens, Ohio.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Beauty Is As Beauty Eats

When skin blemishes complicate the problem of gaining weight, and rich foods which would add pounds aggravate the complexion problem, what can a lass do?

Well, number one on her program to increase her beauty, should be a thorough medical check-up. Frequently a physical disorder, such as anemia or tension will be found as the underlying cause. Follow your doctor's orders and while you gain in curves, you'll also gain in a feeling of well-being and skin beauty.

A special diet is generally suggested, one that increases weight and decreases skin eruptions. The menus below are a sample of this type.

Breakfast: 8 oz. orange juice, 2 slices whole wheat toast, 2 eggs poached or boiled, 8 oz. skim milk. Morning snack: 8 oz. skim milk with 4 graham crackers.

Luncheon: 6 oz. tomato juice, 2 broiled hamburger patties, boiled potato, 2 slices whole wheat bread, ½ pat butter, cup custard, 8 oz. skim milk. Afternoon snack: 8 oz. skim milk with 2 slices of raisin toast—no butter.

Dinner: ½ grapefruit, broiled liver, spinach, sliced tomatoes, baked potato, 2 slices whole wheat bread, ½ pat butter, cup custard, 8 oz. skim milk. Before-bed snack: Cornflakes with skim milk and an apple.

These menus can be varied in endless ways. Just be sure that any substitutes are of like content. You will note that fatty foods such as chocolate, nuts, gravies and fried foods are eliminated. But you can chose at will from a list of all vegetables, including simply cooked potatoes, lean meats, fish and fowl, plain desserts and any fruits except bananas.

With skin problems in mind, this diet restricts fats to the minimum but still provides a daily ration of 2500 calories, and should boost your weight almost a pound per week. Neither stint nor cheat and results are sure to be yours. In your case above all others, beauty is as beauty eats.

Ann Landers . . .
Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why do you judge everyone by yourself? Just because YOU don't want people to drop in to visit why assume everyone shares your point of view?

We live close to Seattle. When we heard of plans for the Fair we were thrilled. It meant we would have company. In former years we battled the heat and long distance to spend time with old friends. This year we plan to stay at home and wait for people to come to US.

We have sent invitations to everyone and anyone we feel might be able to make the trip. We may not have a room for one and all but we will surely have a bed and plenty to eat.

Please print our names in the paper in case we missed somebody. We love company and would love to have scads of visitors this summer. — — — —

DEAR BIG HEARTED FOLKS: I wouldn't dream of printing even your initials. Do you know that approximately 35 million people read this column every day?

Let's set the record straight. I am not opposed to ALL company. I object only to the uninvited variety.

You sent invitations to everyone you could think of? Well, these people, then, are invited guests. And there's a world of difference between an invited guest and a passing pedestrian who knows how to ring a doorbell.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was happy to see you deal with a subject which has been considered taboo. I refer to the mother who shared a bedroom with her 15-year-old son.

We have a similar problem in our family. I've never discussed this with anyone because I'm ashamed to admit that my husband and I have not shared a bedroom for the past six years.

Our 15-year-old son insists on sleeping with his father. They have a large bedroom with twin beds.

My husband is fed up with this arrangement and feels that the boy should have his own room and that he and I should have our bedroom back. Whenever he brings up the subject the boy becomes upset and says he wants things left as they are.

What can we do about this?—OHIO MOTHER

DEAR OHIO: You and your husband can get into the driver's seat where you belong. TELL the boy he's going to have his own room tomorrow. Then see that he has it.

Married people are supposed to sleep with each other and not with their children.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I enjoy your column immensely but you have an annoying habit we wish you'd drop.

Why must you call people "Buster," "Bub," "Buttercup" and "Toots?" Recently you called a woman "Lamb Chop."

We like your advice but these flip little names you attach to readers are a bit much. Since many of your readers are older than you we respectfully suggest that you modify your language. It would make the column far more dignified.—JUST FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: Thank you for the criticism. The next letter is from a reader who also has another opinion on the subject.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a clergyman who likes your column because you are wise but not all-knowing. You are a moralist but not self-righteous. You are forthright but never crude.

Most of all I like your manner of expression. Who but Ann Landers could quote the scriptures in one paragraph and sign off with, "Watch it, Petunia, you've got a one-track mind and the traffic is light."

Don't ever change.—AVID WISCONSIN READER

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lake Below Crest

Lake Gordon is 4½ inches below the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon one-quarter inch above, a report by Ray Nixon, water plant foreman, to the Mayor and Council showed yesterday. Consumption for the week ending Sunday was $78,320,000 gallons compared to 101,470,000 the same period a year ago.

Jap Training Cruise

AGANA, Guam (UPI) — Four Japanese destroyers will visit Apra Harbor Wednesday in the first stop of a 10-week training cruise, it was announced Monday. The ships later go to Australia and New Zealand.

South End Fair Opens

The annual Fun Fair, sponsored by the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association, opened last night on the Penn Avenue Field.

Frankie's Amusements, Washington, will furnish rides and all booths will be owned and operated by the South Cumberland group.

Robert Keech, general chairman, said this will be the first year the fair has been operated under this arrangement. In the past a commercial carnival operated the booths.

Proceeds from the affair are used for improvements in the South End area, to help defray expenses of the annual Hallowe'en parade sponsored by the association and for lighting during the Christmas season, G. Glenn Watson, president, stated.

A feature of the fair this year will be a booth for homemade baked goods. Those desiring to donate may contact Mrs. Fannon Webrick, 722-6956 and Mrs. Gladys Fuller, 722-7878 or bring their goods to the ground.

Searchlights will light up the midway and will be shown all around the area.

The glad hand committee will include Thomas B. Finan, attorney general of Maryland; Mayor J. Edwin Keech; Commissioners Ray Light, Philip Fleming, John J. Long and Mrs. Lucile Roeder; County Commissioners John J. Rowan, John T. Mason, and Louis V. Shinnamon; Sheriff Paul Haberlein; State Attorney James Getty and his assistant, Donald Mason; William Walsh, Thomas F. Conlon Jr., J. Goodloe Jackson, William L. Wilson, William A. Wilson, James Stafford, Noel S. Cook, Arch Hutcheson and Marcus Naughton.

Tickets for rides at a reduced rate can be still obtained from any member of the association, Keech stated.

Rec Workers Are Approved

The Mayor and Council yesterday approved appointments to positions for the summer Recreation Department program.

Named as arts and crafts supervisor is Mrs. Marian Wilson.

Playground directors listed are Ronna Grim, Patricia King, Donald Helker, Fleurette Barger, Barbara Miller, John Turley, Harry Miller, Bonnie Ullery, Sylvia Huff, Gelia Puffenberger, Judith Grim, Mary Footen, Vera Twigg, and Mrs. Jean Beckward.

Assistant playground leaders will be Frances Taylor and Charles Van Horn. Substitute playground director appointed is Mary Louis Berry while Patrick Kenney will be senior ballfield leader.

On another matter, council confirmed Raymond R. Valentine Jr., as a regular member of the Police Department.

Council also changed the hourly rate paid to Elwood V. Seeders and Basil J. Williams, laborers at Municipal Airport, to conform with others in the same classification.

Local Youths Fined In Court

Two local youths were fined $100 each yesterday in Juvenile Court after being convicted of being delinquent minors.

Magistrate Louis Fatkin fined the youths, $100 each after convicting them in a series of thefts.

The youths were charged as delinquent minors, however they were tried as adults since they both turned 18 years of age before the case came to court.

Capt. Det. James E. Van and Det. Harry Iser charged the youths in connection with a series of thefts between last November and this March.

In addition to the fine they were ordered to make restitution to the victims or face an additional 30-day jail term. Magistrate Fatkin also noted they face a 60-day jail sentence if the fines are not paid.

Snakes range in size from a burrowing creature a few inches long to the regal python, nearly 30 feet long and weighing 300 pounds.

Summer Term Is Opened At Potomac State

KEYSER — Classes began this morning for the first semester at Potomac State College where a total of 131 students registered yesterday for the summer term.

Dean K. S. McKee said there will undoubtedly be several others who register late because of late graduation exercises elsewhere but he reminded all planning to attend the summer session to register as soon as possible.

Many of those attending classes the first semester are staying in the campus dormitories.

Registration for the second term will be held July 22.

Mass Wednesday For Former Area Pastor

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward P. McAdams, 84, who served for four years as pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport, in the early 1900s, died Sunday in Providence Hospital, Washington.

He is the only man in the Washington Archdiocese to have served in the priesthood for more than 60 years.

Msgr. McAdams served since 1924 as pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Washington. For nine years in that time, the Very Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, here, was his assistant at St. Joseph's Church.

A man who called himself "the last of the saddle priests," Msgr. McAdams had served more than 450 square miles of Maryland on horseback during the early 1900's.

A Solemn Pontical Requiem Mass will be offered at St. Joseph's Church Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. and burial will be in Cathedral Cemetery in Baltimore.

He was a native of Baltimore and a graduate of Loyola College in 1898. He was ordained by James Cardinal Gibbons in 1901.

Smith Receives College Degree

Smith, a graduate of Allegany High School, has been accepted in the graduate college of Ohio University and will pursue a master's degree in business administration in the fall.

Smith, his wife, Faye, and daughter, Sherri Lynn, reside at Athens, Ohio.

Secrets Of Charm

Beauty Is As Beauty Eats

When skin blemishes complicate the problem of gaining weight, and rich foods which would add pounds aggravate the complexion problem, what can a lass do?

Well, number one on her program to increase her beauty, should be a thorough medical check-up. Frequently a physical disorder, such as anemia or tension will be found as the underlying cause. Follow your doctor's orders and while you gain in curves, you'll also gain in a feeling of well-being and skin beauty.

A special diet is generally suggested, one that increases weight and decreases skin eruptions. The menus below are a sample of this type.

Breakfast: 8 oz. orange juice, 2 slices whole wheat toast, 2 eggs poached or boiled, 8 oz. skim milk. Morning snack: 8 oz. skim milk with 4 graham crackers.

Luncheon: 6 oz. tomato juice, 2 broiled hamburger patties, boiled potato, 2 slices whole wheat bread, ½ pat butter, cup custard, 8 oz. skim milk. Afternoon snack: 8 oz. skim milk with 2 slices of raisin toast—no butter.

Dinner: ½ grapefruit, broiled liver, spinach, sliced tomatoes, baked potato, 2 slices whole wheat bread, ½ pat butter, cup custard, 8 oz. skim milk. Before-bed snack: Cornflakes with skim milk and an apple.

These menus can be varied in endless ways. Just be sure that any substitutes are of like content. You will note that fatty foods such as chocolate, nuts, gravies and fried foods are eliminated. But you can chose at will from a list of all vegetables, including simply cooked potatoes, lean meats, fish and fowl, plain desserts and any fruits except bananas.

With skin problems in mind, this diet restricts fats to the minimum but still provides a daily ration of 2500 calories, and should boost your weight almost a pound per week. Neither stint nor cheat and results are sure to be yours. In your case above all others, beauty is as beauty eats.

Ground Broken For New Road To Hospital

$98,350 Project Gets Under Way

After a week of land-clearing for the mile-long road to be constructed to the site of the new Sacred Heart Hospital on Haystack Mountain, ground was broken yesterday for the project which has been awarded to the S. T. Brotemarkle Company under a bid of $98,350.

On the site when the first scoop of earth was turned by a giant bulldozer were Sister Mary Richard, Sacred Heart administrator, who has just been named the outstanding Catholic of the area by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and Henry F. Frederick, a member of the Sacred Heart Lay Advisory Board, who was lauded by the administrator for his efforts in working out the details of the site and the road approaching it.

Mr. Frederick, district right-of-way engineer for the State Roads Commission, has, according to the hospital head, "worked with a spirit of community dedication, putting in long, hard hours of volunteer effort which will ultimately benefit all of the residents of the Greater Cumberland and Tri-State areas."

Board Commended

Pointing out that all of the members of the lay advisory board, which is headed by Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, have worked hard to bring the new hospital to the area, the administrator stated that "in the initial stages of planning, Mr. Frederick has had to do most of the difficult spade-work."

Having participated in the building of new hospitals in Saginaw, Mich., Jacksonville, Fla. and Bridgeport, Conn., Sister Mary Richard said that she has never encountered a lay advisory board member anywhere with Mr. Frederick's dedication, loyalty and drive. "He is a credit," she said, "to the state for whom he works, and the city in which he lives."

Bruce N. Emmart, superintendent for the S. T. Brotemarkle Company, was present for the historic ground-breaking, as was Operating Engineer James Thrasher, who piloted the giant machine that tore tree stumps up to two feet in diameter out of the ground and sent huge boulders tumbling out of the 60-foot right-of-way that starts at the junction of Wilkins Avenue and Braddock Road. The road is being constructed according to state roads specifications, with its gradual rise not exceeding six per cent at any point along the route.

The roadway is to be graded 40 feet wide, consisting of 24 feet of paving with an eight-inch base and 2½ inches of Maryland specification B bituminous concrete with eight-foot wide shoulders on each side, six inches in depth, constructed of crusher-run material.

Other specifications call for concrete piping of various sizes, concrete end walls and splash blocks, and appropriate ditching. The initial work was started on June 5, as per the contract between hospital officials and the Brotemarkle Company, and the job is to completed on or before September 1, 1963.

Others members of the Sacred Heart Lay Advisory Board are Joseph M. Naughton, Hugh A. McMullen II, William Walsh, Milton Bernstein, Simon Rosenbaum and William L. Wilson, Jr.

Teenage Boys Face Action In Vandalism Case

City police have arrested three teenage boys in connection with the breaking and entering and vandalism at Centre Street Methodist Church Saturday night.

The youths, one 13 and the others 15, have been released in custody of their parents pending action in Juvenile Court.

Detective Harry L. Iser picked up one of the lads Sunday and the other two yesterday.

Police said the juveniles caused more than $200 of property damage while "wrecking the place" but obtained only $2 in change.

They said the boys climbed onto the roof of the church, slid down a rain spout and smashed three windows on the south side of the building.

After gaining entrance the boys reportedly ransacked the entire interior, smashed a record player, broke a large window in the Boy Scouts office and tossed items throughout the building.

The Detective Bureau yesterday was investigating a report by Donald Conway, 1216 Lafayette Avenue, that a brown sleeping bag and green air mattress were taken from his home over the weekend.

Pike Firettes Will Meet Tonight

The Baltimore Pike Teenage Firettes will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the Fire Hall, according to Miss Sharon Gnegy, president.

All members are urged to attend to complete plans for a magic show to be held Friday at 8 p. m. at the Baltimore Pike Fire Hall. There will be a party for the graduating members tonight.

Sacred Heart Road Begins

Changes Made In Pastorates By Methodists

In Frostburg, Rev. Howard Bell Wright was named pastor of First Methodist Church. He succeeds Rev. Robert W. Current, who was assigned as pastor of a church at Reisterstown.

Rev. Donald L. Bates, who had been pastor at Flintstone Methodist Charge, was transferred to Harrisonville, Mich. He will be succeeded by Rev. John E. Ewald, who will have charge of churches at Flintstone, Mt. Collier, Mt. Herman and Murley's Branch.

At Lonaconing, Rev. George I. Loar was named pastor to succeed Rev. Thomas Mitchell, who was appointed to serve in the Martinsburg, W. Va. area.

Rev. Warren W. Watts has been named new pastor of Piney Plains Church.

Bishop Lord also announced at the conference that Rev. William E. Firth, former pastor of Calvary Methodist Church in Annapolis, has been named district superintendent for the Baltimore West District.

Youth Injured Riding Bicycle

William Shupe, 12, Cresaptown, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday evening with injuries he received when he fell from the bicycle he was riding.

The hospital said the youth received possible head injuries and abrasions and was apparently in "satisfactory" condition.

It was reported the Shupe boy fell from his bicycle when the front wheel of the bike came off. The accident occurred about 6:30 p. m. and the youth was brought to the hospital by the ambulance from Cresaptown Fire Company.

Two Arrested In Connection With Larcenies

A Midland man and a resident of Virginia yesterday were arrested by city police and are being held in connection with a number of breaking and enterings and larcenies which occurred in Virginia last week.

City Police Detective Royce Clayton said last night that he questioned the Virginian, who admitted that he and his companion were traveling toward Cumberland from the vicinity of Front Royal when they broke into a grocery store-service station and took a quantity of cigarets, cigars, two wallets and about $10 in change.

Detective Clayton said that they reportedly broke into a service station at Gore, Va., and took about $40 in change, a case of motor oil and a new tire, as well as a box of mechanics tools.

The Virginian also admitted they broke into two cabins near Seven Fountains, Va., took two knives, some eating utensils, soft drinks and a fishing hat.

Later they broke into a service station on U. S. Route 11 between Winchester and Strasburg and took some carpenter's tools.

The two men are expected to be questioned further today by Detective Captain James E. Van who will notify Virginia authorities.

Detective Shank said the Midland man was sentenced last year in Allegany County Circuit Court for breaking and entering and the larceny of money from a business place in the county, and at the present time is on parole.

He was questioned yesterday by James Lewis, county probation officer. The two men were picked up yesterday after Officer Robert Hershberger, on a routine check, became suspicious of them.

Officer Clarence Valentine and Lt. Donald Smith and Officer Jim Vanetta also figured in their arrest. Some cigars, cigarets, two knives, motor oil and masking tape were recivered by local police.

35 County Candidates Report Spending $6,711

Some 35 candidates in the May 15 Allegany County primary election have filed reports in the past few days in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court, showing that they spent a total of $6,711.74 in the campaign.

Five of the 35 reported spending only the required filing fee of $10 or $25 but others got as high as $938.41, which was the amount reported spent in the successful campaign of George R. Hughes Jr. for the Republican nomination for the State Senate.

Gorman E. Getty, as treasurer for Mr. Hughes' campaign, filed his report listing expenditures of $938.41, partially offset by contributions totaling $520. He listed seven contributors, topped by George R. Hughes Sr. with $200, Joseph F. Fahey and C. M. Allen, $100 each; Mr. Getty himself $50, James L. Hughes and C. William Gilchrist, $25 each, and Paul M. Canich, $20.

Getty Reports

Mr. Getty's report was one of 10 which listed contributors in behalf of the campaign.

J. Glenn Beall Jr., who led the Republican ticket in gaining nomination to the House of Delegates, reported $500 in contributions and expenditures of $429.08. His five $100 contributors were J. Glenn Beall, Emil Schwarzenbach, W. Donald Smith, Margaret S. Beall and himself. He has a balance of $70.92 entering the general election campaign.

Reapportioning Battle Enters Second Round

Judge To Decide Status Of Senate

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A second round was set Monday in a legal battle over reapportionment of the Maryland legislature.

Judge O. Bowie Duckett agreed to hear further arguments at 2 p.m. Thursday on whether metropolitan areas are entitled to more representation in the State Senate as well as the House of Delegates.

Judge Duckett ruled on May 24 in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court that seating in the lower house violated the constitutional rights of metropolitan residents since it was not reasonably related to population.

He said he did not see any constitutional requirement for the Senate to be related to population, but he declined to give a formal ruling at that time. The Court of Appeals directed last Friday that he also decide the Senate question.

At present there is one senator for each of the 23 counties and one for each of Baltimore City's six legislative districts.

The legislature, meeting in special session immediately after Judge Duckett's earlier ruling, added 19 seats to the House for the benefit of metropolitan areas. It took no action on the Senate.

The Maryland Committee for Fair Representation, a citizens group which has pressed the reapportionment fight in the courts, complained to the Court of Appeals that Judge Duckett had decided only half of the question. This brought Friday's directive from the high court that he decide the question "promptly."

Judge Duckett received from the committee Monday a formal request that he hear further arguments on the Senate question. He set the arguments for Thursday.

In its motion for rehearing of the case, the committee outlined these arguments:

1. The Maryland Senate "is one of the most grossly malapportioned legislative bodies in the union." Small counties containing less than 15 per cent of the state's population hold a majority of seats.

2. There also exists "equally unreasonable discrimination among the more populous subdivisions" themselves in the Senate. Baltimore County, with a population of about 500,000, has only one senator while Baltimore City, with a little over 900,000, has six.

3. The maximum dilution of voting rights of metropolitan residents reaches as high as 33 to 1 in the Maryland Senate compared to 15 to 1 in Michigan, where the U. S. Supreme Court has ordered further proceedings on a requested Senate reapportionment.

4. "Contrary to a possible implication of this court's opinion of May 24, population has been taken into significant account" in the Senate so far as Baltimore City is concerned and at an earlier date with a senator allotted to the City of Annapolis.

5. The Court of Appeals, in its initial opinion ordering reapportionment arguments, said that though greater latitude may be permissable in distribution of Senate seats, population or eligible voters were factors to be taken into consideration.

6. "Maryland does not have the federal plan, with one house based on population, and another house affording representation to sover-

Cities Urged To Plan Growth On Area Basis

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — Chairman John B. Funk of the State Roads Commission urged Maryland municipalities Monday to plan their growth on a regional basis rather than be restricted to boundary lines.

"Municipalities, whether they are suburban or urban, cannot afford isolation," Funk said in a speech before the 14th annual conference of the Maryland Municipal League.

While municipalities are "confronted with an archaic revenue system which makes their problems gigantic," Funk said, "you cannot live isolated in a neighborhood pocket.

"You are part of the entire community and your thinking must be geared in that direction if the opportunities of tomorrow are to be realized."

Funk contended the state and federal governments realize this dilemma, while "the city and its fringe communities have a tough problem in scaling the wall of understanding."

Maryland's 153 cities and towns will have an opportunity to begin charting their growth patterns this summer, Funk said, through a highway needs study being conducted by the State Roads Commission.

The study, which will outline highway needs of the state and county systems, as well as municipal street networks, will be ready for presentation to the 1963 session of the General Assembly.

Funk said the study will not only afford municipalities an opportunity to plan highway and street needs, but also to develop land use plans for future growth.

"Big thought, regional planning and rapid execution are three elements of action which can lead to a better tomorrow," Funk said.

Ground Broken For New Road To Hospital

$98,350 Project Gets Under Way

After a week of land-clearing for the mile-long road to be constructed to the site of the new Sacred Heart Hospital on Haystack Mountain, ground was broken yesterday for the project which has been awarded to the S. T. Brotemarkle Company under a bid of $98,350.

On the site when the first scoop of earth was turned by a giant bulldozer were Sister Mary Richard, Sacred Heart administrator, who has just been named the outstanding Catholic of the area by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and Henry F. Frederick, a member of the Sacred Heart Lay Advisory Board, who was lauded by the administrator for his efforts in working out the details of the site and the road approaching it.

Mr. Frederick, district right-of-way engineer for the State Roads Commission, has, according to the hospital head, "worked with a spirit of community dedication, putting in long, hard hours of volunteer effort which will ultimately benefit all of the residents of the Greater Cumberland and Tri-State areas."

Board Commended

Pointing out that all of the members of the lay advisory board, which is headed by Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, have worked hard to bring the new hospital to the area, the administrator stated that "in the initial stages of planning, Mr. Frederick has had to do most of the difficult spade-work."

Having participated in the building of new hospitals in Saginaw, Mich., Jacksonville, Fla. and Bridgeport, Conn., Sister Mary Richard said that she has never encountered a lay advisory board member anywhere with Mr. Frederick's dedication, loyalty and drive. "He is a credit," she said, "to the state for whom he works, and the city in which he lives."

Bruce N. Emmart, superintendent for the S. T. Brotemarkle Company, was present for the historic ground-breaking, as was Operating Engineer James Thrasher, who piloted the giant machine that tore tree stumps up to two feet in diameter out of the ground and sent huge boulders tumbling out of the 60-foot right-of-way that starts at the junction of Wilkins Avenue and Braddock Road. The road is being constructed according to state roads specifications, with its gradual rise not exceeding six per cent at any point along the route.

The roadway is to be graded 40 feet wide, consisting of 24 feet of paving with an eight-inch base and 2½ inches of Maryland specification B bituminous concrete with eight-foot wide shoulders on each side, six inches in depth, constructed of crusher-run material.

Other specifications call for concrete piping of various sizes, concrete end walls and splash blocks, and appropriate ditching. The initial work was started on June 5, as per the contract between hospital officials and the Brotemarkle Company, and the job is to completed on or before September 1, 1963.

Others members of the Sacred Heart Lay Advisory Board are Joseph M. Naughton, Hugh A. McMullen II, William Walsh, Milton Bernstein, Simon Rosenbaum and William L. Wilson, Jr.

Sacred Heart Road Begins

Teenage Boys Face Action In Vandalism Case

City police have arrested three teenage boys in connection with the breaking and entering and vandalism at Centre Street Methodist Church Saturday night.

The youths, one 13 and the others 15, have been released in custody of their parents pending action in Juvenile Court.

Detective Harry L. Iser picked up one of the lads Sunday and the other two yesterday.

Police said the juveniles caused more than $200 of property damage while "wrecking the place" but obtained only $2 in change.

They said the boys climbed onto the roof of the church, slid down a rain spout and smashed three windows on the south side of the building.

After gaining entrance the boys reportedly ransacked the entire interior, smashed a record player, broke a large window in the Boy Scouts office and tossed items throughout the building.

The Detective Bureau yesterday was investigating a report by Donald Conway, 1216 Lafayette Avenue, that a brown sleeping bag and green air mattress were taken from his home over the weekend.
